SLC officers elected

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

The Student Leadership Coalition officer elections were held on April 7th in McDonald Student Center. The following are the officers for next year. Thamir Kaddouri Jr., president, Mike Brewer, vice president for operations, Ginger Sheehy, vice president of activities, Sean Lahey, director of communications, Tom Urban, director of finance and Cece Sweat, secretary. The director of activities is still to be announced.

The elections were overseen by an election committee which consisted of Cindy Lawson, supervisor of activities and SLC Moderator, the Judicial Board, Elizabeth Zeigler, the only executive board member not running in the elections, Heather Langmack, senator, Daniel Ferreras, senator and Jack Manhire, senator.

The voting turnout was very high. It is believed that virtually every resident student voted.

Senate addresses administration's actions

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

On Monday, March 29th Senator Dan Ferreras presented a resolution to the Student Leadership Coalition condemning the removal of Mr. Robert Campbell and the moving of Dr. Maribeth Durst from administration to faculty. After lengthy discussion, the senate voted for Thamir Kaddouri, President of the Student Leadership Coalition, to send the resolution to Monsignor Frank M. Mouch, President of the College, along with a letter inviting Mouch to speak with the senate. Kaddouri was approached by many senators during the following week with concerns that they wanted to retake the vote. Therefore, Kaddouri refrained from taking action until the concerns could be addressed at the following meeting.

On April 5th, the senate overturned their previous vote. They decided that the message they wanted to send was not present in the resolution. They were concerned with being circumvented in the decision making process by the administration in general, and that they were not concerned with this specific issue in particular. The senate voted to form a committee whose purpose would be to revise the resolution so that it would more clearly state their intended message.

On April 12th, Campbell addressed the senate. He said that he does not want his job back. However, he was pleased to see the senate motivated. He stated that

Mother and son graduate together

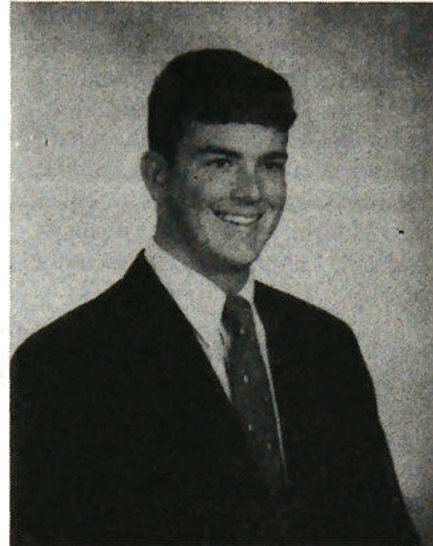

By Kimberly Weissman
News Editor

For some students, May 1 will be one of the happiest days of their lives. On this day the senior class of Saint Leo College will receive its hard earned diplomas and, soon after, venture out into the real world. The stress of graduating can be overwhelming for many, as it is scary to move on and experience new challenges. Imagine sharing this invaluable experience with someone very close to you. Imagine if this someone was your mother.

Charlotte, an English/secondary education major, and Tim, a business major specializing in restaurant and hotel management, also a mother and son from Dade City, will be graduating this semester at Saint Leo College. This circumstance is very unusual, but nonetheless, an intriguing story.

After her high school days, Charlotte Neilan immediately entered the work force, where she was employed in such jobs as office manager and secretary at local establishments. She always had a talent for hair-styling, so she decided to put her talent to work and opened up a barber/salon business with her husband. However, Neilan always had a passion to be a teacher and wanted to pursue this dream. Deciding to obtain a teaching degree, she started at Pasco Hernando Community College and where she received her associate's degree. After two years at PHCC, she applied to Saint Leo College and was accepted. Although initially preferring to teach math and science, she instead opted for an English scholarship that she was offered.

When asked about the transition from work back to school and books again, Neilan replied, "After a 27 year absence from school, it is very hard to study, learn, memorize, and apply myself again. However, I feel that my high school back then equals two years of college today. I especially like the small classes and close teacher/student relationship.

Charlotte feels that she motivated Tim to attend SLC, where they have had a lot of fun being enrolled in 2 classes together, English and history. Surprisingly, there was no competition between the two; however, though they studied together, Charlotte always received the higher grades. Even with his mother enrolled in his classes, Tim didn't feel the need to monitor his actions or behavior in any way to suit his mother's presence. They both feel it was a memorable experience being enrolled together.

When discussing their study habits Charlotte explained, "I need total quiet to focus my complete concentration on my school work. Tim can study through any noise such as the radio and television; I prefer to study with no distractions."

Both Charlotte and Tim have optimistic plans for the future. Charlotte hopes to fill any substitute teaching positions in the local area that become available, while Tim hopes to become employed in a company that offers a lot of traveling experience. Frank Neilan, husband and father to Tim, is very proud of his family duo.

On campus, Charlotte, who will graduate with a 4.0 G.P.A., and Tim, who will graduate with a 3.5 G.P.A., are both members of Delta Epsilon Sigma, the National Honor Society. Charlotte is also vice-president of Sigma Tau Delta, the English Honor Society.

Charlotte is eagerly anticipating graduation day, and is proud to share this special event with her son. She revealed, "Many of Tim's friends thought it would be a hardship on him to attend college with his mother, taking classes together." However that was not the case. "We're very close and had a lot of fun together here at SLC."

Anxious seniors, who are ready to explore the world on their own, are counting the days down to graduation. To Charlotte and Tim Neilan this graduation ceremony will even be particularly more special. Congratulations! We wish you all the best!

Barnett Bank opens business scholarship

Special to the Monarch

Monsignor Frank M. Mouch, president of Saint Leo College has announced the establishment of an endowed scholarship in the amount of $150,000 at the college by Barnett Bank. It will be awarded to business majors with unmet financial needs who meet the established criteria.

"We are extremely pleased that Barnett Bank has chosen to make this gift to Saint Leo," said Monsignor Mouch. "We have a relationship of long standing with the bank and look forward to working with them on this project."

"We are delighted about beginning this endowed scholarship with Saint Leo college," said Doug Smith, president of Barnett Bank of Pasco County. "Saint Leo has strong roots in the community and is committed to excellence in education. We're excited about the opportunity to demonstrate our commitment to education through this scholarship."

To qualify for the scholarship, a student must be a declared business administration major and must be accepted as a new fulltime campus-based student at SLC and have a minimum cumulative Grade Point Average of 2.8. Preference will be given to Florida students. Applications are available in the SLC Office of Admissions and Office of Financial Aid.

The scholarship can be renewed each year for a maximum renewal of three years if the student has a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.8 at the end of each spring semester. Scholarship recipients will meet once each year with representatives from Barnett Bank to discuss their academic performance.

The first scholarship will be awarded in fall 1994.

Barnett Bank of Pasco County is a metropolitan bank with 20 offices throughout the county. It is an affiliate of Barnett Banks Incorporated. Barnett advocates active leadership and participation in the community. The bank takes pride in its rich history and commitment to the future by the development of individuals through contributions to education.

Senate needs to find direction

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

First of all, I would like to personally congratulate the newly elected executive board officers of the Student Leadership Coalition. It is my sincere hope that they have the wisdom to see the best course for the SLC and that they have the diligence, skill and persuasiveness to carry it out.

The Monarch and the SLC have, in the past, mutually attempted to work together for the community's best interest, and I would like to see this type of positive relationship to continue in the future. I have been pleased to notice a tremendous increase in the enthusiasm and participation of the senate.

The meetings have shown a vast increase in senate discussion. The issue that the senate is recently dealing with is an example of the active role they have taken. Senator Dan Ferreras presented a resolution on a very serious issue. Over the following three meetings, the senate offered considerable discussions on the matter. It was decided to reject the bill in its present form, and to have a committee revise it. I hope that this was not a mistake in the senate's part. As of the writing of this editorial there are less than two weeks left of the school year. Forming a committee and carefully revising a resolution seems unlikely to take place in such a limited amount of time. However, I must admit, the committee has been successfully formed and organized with blinding speed. Perhaps, they will have time to successfully take action on this issue before the school year is completed. Hopefully, the senate will not forget the important issue, and will continue discussion and action on it next year. For more information on the bill, the topic, and the senate's actions read the story included in this issue.

The senate has definitely improved their eagerness to fill their roles. It seems clear that the next important goal of the senate should be to identify the critical issues that concern the community of Saint Leo College. Now that the enthusiasm exists it must be focused to the best goals. The Monarch volunteers any assistance, that we can provide in identifying the important issues that the senate should prioritize. I compliment the senate on their improvements and offer my hope that they continue to advance in the future.

The Marriott cafeteria food is not that bad

By Kimberly Weissman
News Editor

As on any college campus across the country, the students have always formed a stereotype opinion about the food served in the cafeteria. Of course it is impossible to compare the cafeteria meals to mom and dad's specialties of home-cooking, so many look at school food as a "sacrifice" made if one wants to live on the college campus. However, it is noticeable that many great changes have taken place in both the atmosphere and the quality of food served in the McDonald Cafeteria.

Lenny Conley, director of Marriott Food Services for five years this August, knows it is a challenge to completely satisfy all of the students at every meal. Because students dine in the same cafeteria 2 to 3 times a day, Conley has tried to create a more appealing atmosphere in the McDonald cafeteria by repainting the ceiling, making the room seem brighter and more cheerful. Cleanliness is maintained on a daily basis, and another additive to dining pleasure is the music that is played through overhead speakers at every meal.

Appearance, without a doubt, can accentuate the scenery of the cafeteria by creating a different look, therefore producing a more enjoyable dining experience. When asked if he liked the versatile seating arrangements of tables, repositioning of food appliances, and fluctuating salad bar locations one student replied, "A small change like moving the tables in a different sequence and rotating other equipment around the cafeteria can add a lot to the overall appearance of the dining area and reduces the feeling of repetitious boredom."

New manager Scott Hill was added last semester and it is apparent that he has caused considerable change for the better in the McDonald cafeteria, by implementing his ideas in food preparation and overall catering production. Hill trained for Marriott at Eckerd College and then became acting manager at Florida State for two and a half years. Sensing he needed a change, Hill accepted the job offer for the position of manager and arrived about six months ago at Saint Leo College.

Hill feels the overall key to the successful change in food preparation and production is due to the utilization of all food facilities in the kitchen. Before Hill arrived, only half of the kitchen was used to produce every meal. Hill has expanded these facilities by operating both service lines, therefore increasing food selection for the students. Now students can choose and enjoy from a potato, pasta, nacho, Chinese, breakfast, to any other kind of bar you can think of at each meal!

A senior who has attended SLC for four years is definitely impressed at the obvious improvements of the McDonald cafeteria and commented, "I must admit that the food on campus has come a long way since I first arrived at Saint Leo. I enjoy the various food selections and feel that the food is not as repetitious as before." As a whole the majority of students, when asked which meal is usually the most enjoyable and satisfying, agreed that Saturday brunch is the best meal served in the cafeteria.

Though some students are health-conscious, it becomes difficult to select an entree when it appears on some days that the selections are limited to fast foods such as hot dogs, hamburgers, and french fries. Of course, although these foods are very appealing to college students, one cannot survive on them due to lack of nutritional value. Hill explains this dilemma by saying, "The students have a high demand for fast foods and as part of making the customer happy, you satisfy the majority." However, there is a vegetarian meal, various Marriott special recipes, fresh lunch meat and fruit selections, and the salad bar at each meal to satisfy those students who request it.

Marriott must be commended on their labeling of nutritional value of each meal and the addition of healthy selections as part of the meal plan. There now are two types of lights breads, 3 low-fat salad dressings, low-fat mayonnaise, and vegetable oil is used in the preparation of french fries.

Marriott suggests that students share their questions, comments, and concerns about the food in the cafeteria. As Hill puts it, "We need the students input to know what they specifically like and don't like, and we'll do our best to fulfill their needs." Hill encourages students to share their food requests and will do his best to accommodate them sufficiently.

Although we may all sometime overlook the people who serve as the foundation of the Marriott team, Marriott should be applauded for their quality staff and employees. Needless to say, Hill credits his positive success to every associate employed by Marriott Food Services, and comment on how well they adapted well to his changes.

Allene Blevins, who has been employed at Saint Leo College for 12 years, definitely deserves a special thanks for her patience and kindness when dealing with absent minded students, who frequently lose their i.d. cards. The new i.d card system has, however, run more smoothly by doing away with the clipped meal cards and changing to the scanner system.

Overall, the students of Saint Leo are satisfied with the McDonald cafeteria and its obvious changes for the better. Meals are continually improving with the addition of new ideas and various food selections each month. The cafeteria food doesn't have to be that bad, and it's all what you make of it. If you are unsatisfied, voice your opinions in a civilized manner, and the necessary changes will be made to satisfy you.

For any interested students, a Food Committee will be started again on campus next semester. At these meetings, students have the opportunity to share comments and voice their opinions on what is satisfactory and what needs improvement.

Finally, there is no reason why everyone on campus can't find a selection when it comes to eating in the McDonald cafeteria. For some, the yogurt machine is inspiration enough to sign up for the meal plan. Chocolate and vanilla are voted as the most popular flavors, and the toppings are a delicious way to end any meal. However, be aware when fulfilling your yogurt indulgence because you never know when Tony is watching!

Buller receives statewide award

Special to the Monarch
By Stephanie Stratton

Rebecca Buller, a Saint Leo College junior, majoring in elementary education, was honored in Tallahassee on April 9 as one of 13 honorable mentions in the 1993 "Florida College Student of the Year Award" scholarship program. Sponsored by Florida Leader magazine, the contest recognizes 20 of the state's most outstanding college students who support themselves financially through school, demonstrate superior academic commitment, and volunteer their time and efforts in community and campus service. The students are chosen by a panel of distinguished judges including respected dignitaries, educators, business leader, and journalists nationwide.

Buller, from Warner Robins, Georgia is the first SLC student to receive this prestigious award. Her list of accomplishments include serving on the college's board of trustees as a student representative for the second consecutive year; vice president of the Student Leadership Coalition, SLC's governing student body; and president of SLC's chapter of Circle K International, a student service organization. Buller is also a member of the Samaritans, the student arm of campus ministry; the Student Advisory Board; and the Counseling Group for Exceptional Children. She also maintains a 3.82 GPA in her scholastic studies. As an honorable mention selection, Buller received a $500.00 scholarship.

Each year hundreds of applicants from Florida's community colleges, private colleges, and state universities are received and narrowed down to 20 finalists. This year's judges included Terrel H. Bell, former U.S. Secretary of Education; Dr. Charles Reed, chancellor of the State University System of Florida; the late J.E. Davis, founder of Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc.; Gene Kennedy, advertising manager for First Union National Banks of Florida; Rance Crain, editor-in-chief of Advertising Age magazine; and David Lawrence, publisher of The Miami Herald.

While a total of 40 Florida colleges statewide are represented by this year's applicants, the 20 finalists are from 16 institutions. Eight are from state universities, nine attend private colleges, and three are from community colleges. Nine of the finalists are education majors, five of the 20 are considered "non-traditional" students, and fifteen of the 20 winners are women.

Saint Leo College is a four year, Catholic liberal arts college located just north of Tampa. Chartered June 4, 1889, it offers a bachelor's degree in 23 areas of specialization. In addition to the traditional student body of nearly 1,000, more than 5,500 students are enrolled through the Center for Distance Learning, which includes Evening College, Weekend College, the teacher certification program and resident centers on 12 military establishments.

SOAR and BACCHUS inform

Special to the Monarch

SOAR and BACCHUS united forces to staff an information table at the SLC Health Fair on March 10, 1993. Pamphlets were available to boost awareness on both alcohol and sex. There were also pamphlets and material on date rape. (Such pamphlets are still available in front of the Health Center.) Key chains were also available to those who signed a pledge card for Spring Break. Those who signed a pledge card (approximately 50 students) promised not to drink and drive. SOAR and BACCHUS also had students comment on an article regarding alcohol and peer pressure on college campuses.

SOAR and BACCHUS would like to extend a thank you to all who participated in the Health Fair. We would also like to send a special thank you to Dr. Jo Ann Quinn and SLC nurse Bobbi Sponheim for their involvement and support at the Health Fair as well as their continual assistance that they provide for SOAR and BACCHUS.

Jesus Christ Superstar performed

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

The Saint Leo College Theater recently presented Jesus Christ Superstar. This musical, which depicts the last days of Christ, was the first major success for Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice. Webber has also played a large part in the very successful Phantom of the Opera and Cats, just to name a few in his long line of popular musicals. Tim Rice was recently involved in writing the lyrics for the Oscar winning song "A Whole New World" from the movie Aladdin.

Mr. David Frankel directed the production. Mr. Henry served as the director for scene and lighting design. Mr. Higgins was the instrumental director and Dr. Delisi filled the role of director for vocal music. The actors consisted of both new faces and veterans of the Saint Leo College Theater.

The musical was performed in the College Theater Building on April 14 through the 17th.

In addition to three undecided performances, the Theater will present a play by Moliere during the 93-94 academic year.

K of C raise money for the retarded

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

On Friday, March 5th and Saturday, March 6th, the Knights of Columbus Saint Leo College Council participated in the Knights of Columbus' annual Tootsie Roll Drive for the mentally retarded. All of the councils in Florida participated in the event on that weekend. The event is used as a fundraiser for local charities for the retarded. The Saint Leo College Council will give a check for $380 to the Association of Retarded Citizens of San Antonio within the next couple weeks.

The check is the largest amount that the council at Saint Leo has ever collected. The council had been inactive for several years, but was reactivated this year.

On March 24, the Social Work Club had a successful dinner. The dinner was held at 6:30 p.m. in Lion's Lounge. Many people attended this dinner and guest speaker, Dan D'Agostino. He was the 1992-93 recipient of the Social Worker of the Year Award. Loary Coates, the president of the Social Work Club, was also honored at this dinner, for her award as Undergraduate Student Social Worker of the Year. We are very proud of Dan and Loary for their accomplishments. Once again, the dinner was a great success.

Ecology class studies habitats

By Glenn Ladwig
Design Editor

Dr. Patricia Dooris' ecology class took a field trip to nearby Green Swamp March 8. The swamp is approximately twenty-five miles south of Saint Leo and its perimeter extends into Polk, Lake, Sumter, Pasco, and Hernando counties.

Dr. Ted Rochow, environmental scientist of Southwest Florida Water Management District, provided a tour of the swamp ecosystem. The main purpose of the field trip was to familiarize the students with typical Florida habitats, including cypress domes, pine flatwoods, and hammocks, and to provide a first-hand view of Florida wildlife. Green Swamp is the home to 432 species of vertebrates, including several threatened/endangered species.

The swamp is unique hydrologically, being the Withlacoochee-Hillsborough rivers overflow. It is also an enormous water storage and recharge area. Green Swamp originates from the Peace, Hillsborough, Oklawaha, and Withlacoochee River systems.

Dr. Rochow also provided students with Green Swamp's background and history. In driving to the swamp, students viewed the historical village of Rock Ridge. This logically led to a discussion of early settlers of the Green Swamp area and its archaeological significance. During the Second Seminole War (1835-1842), many Seminole Indians found refuge in the Green Swamp.

The class also visited Cypress Creek Wellfield to study wetland affected by groundwater withdrawal. March 12, Upper Tampa Bay Park was visited to provide ecology students with an example of an estuarine environment with infringing civilization.

Though the ecology course is an upper-level division course designed for biology majors, there will be an environmental studies course, for non-majors, offered in the fall. One can expect to visit the Withlacoochee River and Devil's Creek Swamp. Wear your rubber boots!

Dr. Rochow, far left, identifies herbaceous plant life indigenous to the Green Swamp ecosystem for the ecology class.

SLISA offers something for all

By Kimberly Weissman
News Editor

The main purpose of the organization, Saint Leo International Students Association, which is to unite international students on campus and promote each individual culture, has been fulfilled this year at SLC.

With an increase in the number of international students attending Saint Leo College each semester, the members have had a lot to offer each other in terms of cultural awareness and global diversity. Some highlights of the club's main events throughout the year include the presentation on A.I.D.S. awareness, which was conducted by A.I.D.S. patients; a talk on interracial relationships by Saint Leo students; and cultural presentations with various SLISA members as guest speakers, who shared a bit of their history and culture with the audience.

Elections for office for the coming year have taken place, and the executive board eagerly awaits the next semester to begin its term. SLISA hopes to accomplish many goals next year, including more promotion of the club in turn causing an increase in membership, more on and off-site activities, and participation in cultural activities involving the Saint Leo community.

Amini Awe, past SLISA president, encourages minorities to become involved with the United Latin Students (ULS), Black Student Union (BSU), and SLISA for the coming school year. However, remember that SLISA is open to all students. The organization plans on completing an exciting agenda of activities in the fall, which a student from anywhere in the world would prosper from being a part of and certainly reap much enjoyment.

SLC Journal

Special to the Monarch
By Thimir Kaddouri

The academic year is coming to a close and there is much that each of us must do. I would like to take a moment to thank all the members of the Student Coalition Senate, the faculty, and the administration for their endless support during the restructuring of this organization. It has taken some time for the Student Leadership Coalition to become fully operational. I assure you we have learned a lot during this past year, and this summer the Executive Board will address the strengths and weaknesses of the organization. By analyzing this past academic year, we will be able to address the questions or ambiguities regarding the policies, office procedures, or organizational requirements that are proposed by the Student Leadership Coalition.

Communication is one issue that the Student Leadership Coalition has spent a great deal of time and effort in resolving. As President of this organization, I am well aware of the dire need for proper communication, and I recognize the fact that input from various people is essential in the decision making process. The Executive Board of the Student Leadership Coalition and its subsidiaries should have a tangible voice when it comes to decisions that affect the students. With the current decision making process of Saint Leo College, the opinions of the Student Leaders themselves are circumvented.

It is essential, however, that the elected officials of the students, the members of the Student Leadership Coalition, know the correct information and participate in the decision making process. It is apparent that communication is a questionable factor here at Saint Leo College. Time and time again decisions are made without the students' input. By the time the students leaders, let alone the students, are made aware of possible changes the decisions have already been made.

This article is by no means an attack on the administration or the college itself but, instead, should be used as a floor plan for renovating the shabby communication process here at the college. I recently submitted a proposal to Sister Geraldine Warthling, the Vice President of Student Affairs. I proposed that the President of the Student Leadership Coalition participate in the administrative meetings of the college. This student is elected annually by the student body and is involved with the administrators and staff at the college. I think that this proposal would allow the faculty and the administration of the college to have a clear and concise view of the students and their needs as presented from a student's perspective.

Saint Leo College practices a Student-Centered, Student first philosophy of service. What better way to support the mission of this fine institution than to provide the students with a voice during the intricate decision making process?

Special to the Monarch
By Dick Joslyn
FACA HATCHEE JAM

*It seemed to me that the owl announced the evening;
For until then, I swear the strand was silent as a stand;
But upon the owl's deep and benevolent intonation,
Full of authority: "Who-who, who-who, who, who, who,"
"Let the evening begin!", it seemed to command
With the voice of its creator,*

*Full of strength and mystery, and love-
Dutifully began the crickets singing;
Lovely gentle chirpings,
And the wind all of sudden picked up and sighed*

*In a whispering rustle
That in its hushed and tender stroking of the treetops
Nearly tore my heart in two;
And the hawk called shrill and strident
With its "Cree! Cree!" cry,
Followed in delightful percussive cussing
By the "Gulp!" of the irreverent frog,
As if to remind brother hawk
Not to take himself too seriously.
By now more crickets joined with melodies
In different pitches, different keys,
While the whine of a mosquito by my ear distracted me;*

*Yet I was so richly lulled to rapture
By the many voices that I let the skeeter capture
Some red blood cells and said, "Yes, settle on me if you will
Little brother, and take a sip of me and let my life's blood nourish
At least one bit of this awesome symphony;
A deeper drone went diving my head, Bzzrmmm!
What was it that my little sister said
As she went zipping by my brain?
Say it again! Say it again!
Even more voices filled the air;
Gurgles, chortles over there;
Splashes in the swampy water;
Raucous calls, "Rauck! Rauck!", it seemed there oughto
Be some name for these critters;
For all these bleeps and twirps and twitters...
Oh Lord, I've no idea how
To describe the music I was hearing now,
Except to say
That I had reached the shoreline of the day;
The chanting and enchanting transition place
Between two realms of earthly space;
And now the sea of night was lapping, (and laughing!)
Upon the shoreline of the day
With a thousand murmurings;
I rushed joyful into its waves
And it enveloped me.*

Looks like a Vivarin night.

The big one's only 12 hours away. You could have paid more attention in class, but tonight you've gotta cram. First, you better keep those eyes from closing.

Revive with Vivarin.

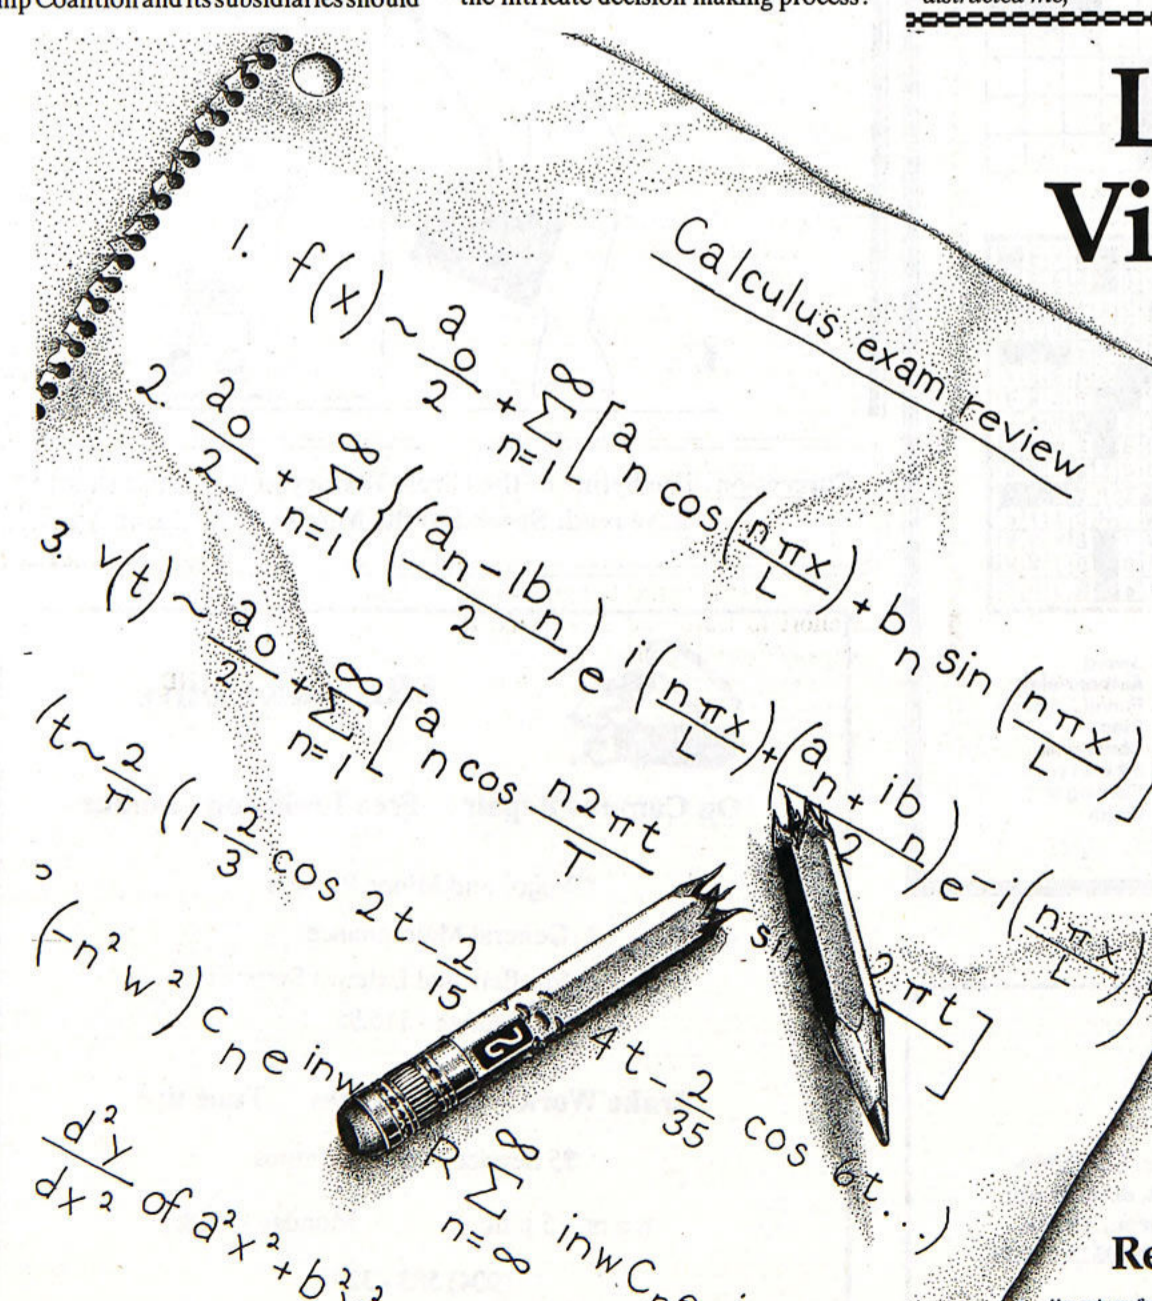

Safe as coffee, it helps keep you awake and mentally alert for hours.

So when your most difficult problem to solve is how to stay awake...make it a Vivarin night!

Sincerely Yours,

Dear Sincerely Yours,
I have seen recycling bins all over campus. Is this a new trend on campus?
-Observant

Dear Observant,
The Environmental Concerns Committee is taking steps on campus to keep the environment clean and a save place to live. It would be appreciated if faculty, students, and staff would deposit all of their empty plastic cans in the proper receptacles marked "recycling." If you have any questions, concerns, or would like more information on the organization contact Renee Gladu at 8763.

-Sincerely Yours

Dear Sincerely Yours,
I heard something recently that truly baffled me, so I thought I'd ask you for the answer. Is it true that half of my freshman class won't be here next year?
-Soon to be Sophomore

Dear Soon to be Sophomore,
Well, it is true that many people do move on and transfer from Saint Leo College because of financial reasons, change of major, or to a higher fulfillment somewhere else; however, half seems a bit too extreme. Don't worry, I'm sure you'll see many familiar faces when you return next fall.

-Sincerely Yours

Thank you for all your contributions to my column throughout the school year. I wish you a safe, fantastic summer and hope you find the answers to all your questions in the future!

-Sincerely Yours

Greg Brady—"(GASP) Mom's favorite vase!"
Bobby Brady—"She always says: 'Don't play ball in the house!'"

A Very Brady Mr. College ASK MR. COLLEGE

Mr. College answers questions about The Brady Bunch!

Q. Dear Mr. College: What happened to Mike's first wife, and Carol's first husband?—Baffled
A. Dear Baffled: Good question. Mike shot and killed his first wife in a domestic dispute. He claimed it was self-defense, and was never charged with any crime. Carol, on the other hand, was never even married. In fact, Marsha, Jan and Cindy each have a different biological father.

Q. Dear Mr. College: In the episode where Peter breaks Mom's favorite vase, do you feel that Peter should have received all the blame? Shouldn't Bobby and Greg share the responsibility?—Tormented

A. Dear Tormented: This may come as a bit of a shock, but I DO NOT believe that ANY of the Brady boys were responsible. After studying the angle and trajectory of the basketball I have developed what I call the "Second Ball" theory. I maintain that Cindy broke the vase with a softball thrown from the shag carpet area of the living room, or, "the shaggy knoll". Peter was nothing but... well... a patsy.

Q. Dear Mr. College: Who's your favorite Brady?—Curious

A. Dear Curious: Oh no you don't! I DO have a favorite Brady, but as one of the countries foremost Bradyists I feel it would be irresponsible of me to answer that. Sorry.

Q. Dear Mr. College: Who would win in a fight; Greg Brady, or Keith Partridge?—Often Wonder

A. Dear Often: No contest. Though they never actually fought, I have simulated this match on computer many times. There's no question that Greg could kick Keith's ass. Even if Danny got Reuben to help.

he "almost saw the senate rise up on their hind legs, but he believes the senate may have undermined the effort. He wants the senate to take a "proactive role in the decision making process." Furthermore, the resolution committee chairperson Frank Teodosio announced the members of his committee. The committee was scheduled to meet on the 15th of april to discuss future plans. Senate meetings are held every monday in Selby Auditorium. All members of the college community are welcome to attend and express their concerns.
