Saint Leo College exceeds phonathon goal

By Michael LaBarr

Congratulations to all the Saint Leo College faculty, staff and students who made the recent phonathon a huge success. With pledges totaling $17,000, the college is 12 percent over the goal of $15,000.

The phonathon was held on five consecutive nights, from September 27-October 1. Volunteers called each night from 6-8 pm, contacting SLC alumni. "We couldn't have done it without the help of our volunteers," commented Elaine Hoon, facilitator of the event. There were 81 callers, but more than 85 volunteers assisted with the program.

The volunteers called alumni all over the country, segmenting by class year. They studied past yearbooks to get a feel for what the campus was like when the alumni were here, so they could update them on recent events. More than 3,000 alumni were called, resulting in a total of 352 pledges. Funds raised through this effort will be used to enhance scholarships and academic program needs.

Volunteers were recruited through an advertisement in SLATE, the SLC faculty/staff newsletter, and the Daily Say-So, the daily campus bulletin. Hoon also spoke at a student senate meeting to make an appeal to the student leaders for their help.

"Just about every department and organization volunteered," she said. "They made it happen."

Bukridge, STAR; Nadia Vanteffelen, STAR; Fred Colby, Registrar; Susan Noblitt, Human Resources; Suzanne Renczkowski, Public Affairs; Bonnie Black, Admissions; Barbara Renczkowski, Finance and Accounting; Galliehue Blevins, Circle K; Rob Jones, Circle K; Adam Hathorn, STAR; Mark Segreto, Theta Xi; Sean Saunders, Theta Xi; Bill Brooks, Circle K; Billy Haggerty; Matt Klinefelter, Admissions; John Cunningham; Felicia Sinopoli, STAR; Becky Buller, Circle K; Steven R. ## Hooray for Hollywood

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

The Saint Leo College Annual Fall Festival Weekend was held October 15-17. The weekend provides an opportunity for parents to visit the College and their sons and/or daughters. However, as Brian Stuber, chairman of the Fall Festival Weekend Committee, explained "It's not just Parents Weekend, it's for everyone."

The theme chosen for the weekend was "Hooray For Hollywood!" The agenda included a number of activities both relating to and independent of the theme. The activities included a parade, a banner contest, a talent show, a soccer match, the president's dinner, a theater production, the crowning of a King and Queen and many other events. The King and Queen were Brian Stuber '94 and Becky Buller '94. The Ambassadors won the banner contest.

The Samaritans float starring Jack Manhire as the hunchback of Saint Leo was ranked first in the parade. Comedian Jason Hammond won the talent show. Last but not least, the Monarchs defeated Emery Riddle in the soccer match with the staggering score of 5-1.

Brian Stuber offered his hope that next year's committee is able "to carry on with the tradition."

Mother of SLC professor establishes third scholarship

By Jeff Arnold

She's 80 years old and she's no Rockefeller, but she loves Saint Leo College and Saint Leo benefits from her love.

Mrs. Genevieve Horgan, mother of Professor Dr. James J. Horgan of the Saint Leo College faculty, has established not one, but three scholarship funds for history majors at SLC. The endowments, each in the amount of $10,000, have been generous gifts from Mrs. Horgan over the past three years. The third scholarship fund is named in the memory of Mrs. Horgan's brother, Aloisius Bolak. The first scholarship she named for herself and the second in memory of her late husband, William S. Horgan.

Mrs. Horgan retired after many years of working for the Daughters of Charity at their mother house in St. Louis, Missouri. She currently resides in Ohio.

"My mother is no Rockefeller. She just wants to help students who are less fortunate and may not have the opportunity to attend Saint Leo if it were not for her help," Dr. Horgan stated. When asked why she is so generous, Mrs. Horgan replied, "Saint Leo College is an excellent college. I want to help students; not give them a handout, but to give them a hand up. I hope this will inspire them to help someone else in the future."

Dr. Horgan has been teaching history at SLC since 1965. He and Dr. John J. McTague, also a professor of history, will make the decision as to who receives the scholarship. After the recipient is chosen, Horgan asks that they do one simple task. "I ask each recipient if they would sit down and write my mother a letter. She gets a big kick out of hearing from those who she actually helps and really enjoys their letters."

Horgan is the author of City of Flight: The History of Aviation in St. Louis, co-editor of The Reagan Years: Perspectives and Assessments, and has published a number of articles and reviews on civil rights issues and diplomatic history. He is also the author of Pioneer College, the centennial history of Saint Leo College, Saint Leo Abbey, and the Holy Name Priory.

A lecture on violence

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

On Wednesday, October 20, the Honors Program held the first of this year's Honors Lecture Series. Dr. Maribeth Durst, professor of sociology, spoke on "Violence as a Cultural Norm."

In the lecture, she explained the characteristics of both violent societies and peaceful societies. In peaceful societies, men and women are generally considered equals. The role of a warrior or hunter in such a society is seen as anything but glorious.

Furthermore, in peaceful societies, everything is cooperatively owned. In a violent society, warriors are honored. Competitive and physical sports are highly regarded. In some cases, violence is even seen to some as an acceptable way of expressing love.

Durst considered the possible benefits offered by violent societies, and whether these benefits were helpful or actually

Circle K sets its focus

By Blanche Farrel

Service has been an important part of every society. Throughout the history of the world, people have been giving their time to help others. There is so much anger, hatred, and evil in the world that being kind is almost "out of style." This is not the case here on the campus of Saint Leo College.

Circle K International has been an important part of students' lives since 1957. The organization has an international board which governs all of North America, Mexico, the Cayman Islands, the Bahamas, and is launching more clubs on campuses across the world.

Circle K is sponsored by Kiwanis Clubs in different towns. For example, Saint Leo College's Circle K is sponsored by the Dade City

Kiwanis Club. U.S.F.'s Circle K is likewise sponsored by the Downtown Tampa Kiwanis Club. The Kiwanis Club works closely with Circle K to promote and encourage people to volunteer their time to help the less fortunate.

The theme of this year is "Focusing on the Future: Children." Each club is required to fulfill a certain number of hours which relate to the theme. So far, several people volunteer at the Boy's Village (a temporary home for delinquent juvenile boys), and the Dade City Geriatric Center is planning a trip to Disney for a dying boy and his family.

If you are interested in participating in any upcoming events, feel free to attend the Circle K meetings every Thursday at 6:00 p.m. in Crawford Hall, Room #8, or call ext.8801.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Is chivalry dead?

By Lainie Quinn

Being apparent that many of you do not know the meaning of chivalry, allow me to explain. Chivalry is the heroic defense of life and honor. Being chivalrous would include being generous, considerate, polite, and courteous. One may believe such a notion still exists. I would argue otherwise.

On October 12, 1993, there was a co-curricular fair in the Cage. After the event was over, one other person besides myself was left to straighten up the Cage. There were at least eight cafeteria tables to be carried upstairs and all of the Cage tables and chairs had to be put back into place. This would not be a very time consuming task had more than two people been left to accomplish it. The question of chivalry has still not come into play.

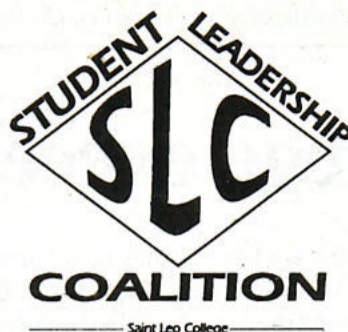

As the person and I were putting the Cage back into some sort of order, a fraternity sat in the back of the Cage. In all, there were about eight gentlemen, I use the term loosely, sitting on their behinds as we quietly continued to work. I understand that they may have been having a meeting, but the entire Cage could have been put back into its original form in about ten minutes. When the person I was working with asked them for a hand, they refused. The fraternity was finished with their 'meeting' before we were even half way done. My question is, do all fraternities have this much apathy for common courtesy?

I had believed that a fraternity was a symbol of brotherhood and community. I had believed that this symbol was reflected through their actions. I was obviously wrong. I cannot comprehend sitting on my behind watching people do the work of many. I can not understand how not one of the fraternity members even offered to help. Am I expecting too much from another human being? Are we supposed to simply turn our backs when we see others in need of help? What kind of community is that? Sadly, one that is quite apparent here on campus.

I did not mention the fraternity's name because unlike them, I believe in common courtesy. Even though I feel their behavior was extremely rude, I extend to them the respect, consideration, and simple kindness they so desperately lack. On that note, I guess one could say that chivalry is not dead - just extremely rare.

SLC senators come to life

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

I take back everything negative that I have ever said about the SLC senate. On Oct. 19 at 6 p.m. in the SLC senate meeting, I was never more pleased with anyone than I was with the senators. For those of you who have no clue to what I'm talking about, let me explain. During the meeting, the senate revised and passed the constitution for this year. The senate hardly stood by passively in this process.

The senators rigorously analyzed every article, subsection and line. They picked it apart piece by piece and debated back and forth about where the problems in the constitution were and how to correct them. The senate didn't let it come to a vote until they were fully satisfied with the resulting amended constitution. Their satisfaction was shown clearly in the vote to pass the constitution. The vote was virtually unanimous, passing with only one vote against and a few abstentions.

I think the American forefathers would be pleased to find that the revised constitution contained one of the most important safeguards found in the U.S. Constitution. The safeguard to which I refer would be the checks and balances system. It provides for a fair system of government.

In the Student Leadership Coalition, one branch or person is no more powerful than any other branch. Both the senate and the executive board can propose legislation. The senate retains the right to confirm legislation, and the president retains the right to veto. Finally, the senate can override that veto. It is a system that ensures everyone is kept on the same level of authority and power.

I sincerely hope that the senate and the executive board continue to take such an active and high spirited stance on everything they address.

Beaver's soapbox

By Sean Lahey

I write today to expose an unfortunate trend present in the majority of the population of Saint Leo College; the unwillingness to take a stand against the norm and live to the ethical and moral standards with which most of us were raised.

The majority of the students on campus were raised with Christian morals, yet most tend to sit idly back with their apathetic attitudes and watch those around them voice opinions counter to their beliefs. It takes a person with a strong sense of self-confidence and faith to take a stand, as a young adult of today, and proclaim faith in God and morality. I think that the student chaplains should be commended for their courage.

Presently, American society (mainly the MTV generation) has a tendency to ridicule young adults who have high moral and ethical standards by referring to them as fanatics or ultra-conservatives. I am not a disciple of Rush Limbaugh, though I do lean towards more conservative stands. I believe that abortions of convenience are sinful and should be illegal. I believe that the term "Racial Tolerance" is an insult. To proclaim tolerance of another implies superiority, which is the bane of all races. I believe in strong family values as the only route for salvation against the apparent increase in hate crimes and violence.

Some of you will read this article and decide that I am just another shmuck on a soap box. Well, you are right and I will challenge all of you to examine your own conscience, find your own soap box and get on it.

English Honor Society inducts new members

By Stephanie F. Stratton

Saint Leo College recently inducted ten new members into the Alpha Alpha Alpha chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, the International Collegiate English Honor Society. Acting as advisor and presiding over the ceremony was professor Maura Snyder, former chair of the SLC English Department. Professor Ralph Pendexter, a Sigma Tau Delta member, is also an acting sponsor of the Saint Leo College chapter.

Included in this year's inductees are: Jennifer Grant of Tampa, Betty Kozumplik of Ridge Manor, Joel Murray of Cape Coral, Stephanie Stratton of Dade City, James Washington of Saint Leo, Susan Monier of Inverness, and Thomas Turcotte from Tampa.

The new members, selected from among the college's top English majors and minors, have all shown superior character, excellent scholarship and enthusiasm for their chosen field. They must also have accumulated 45 hours of college work, with a grade point average of 3.5 or better (4.0 scale) overall and in English.

Sigma Tau Delta, with 419 chapter worldwide, began as an outgrowth of an English club at the Dakota Wesleyan University in Mitchell, South Dakota, and was nationalized under its present name in 1924.

The objectives of the society are to confer distinction for high achievement in undergraduate, graduate and professional studies in English language and literature, to provide cultural stimulation on college campuses through local chapters, to foster community interest within English departments and to encourage creative and critical writing. Twice a year, the society publishes The Rectangle, a journal of member's works.

The 1993-1994 chapter officers are Jennifer Grant, president; James Washington, vice-president; Joel Murray, secretary; Betty Kozumplik, treasurer; Jeannine Vlasik, historian and Stephanie Stratton, public relations officer.

Renegade Greeks

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

According to the Student Activities Office, there has been a great deal of difficulty with fraternities and sororities that are no longer recognized continuing to operate against college policy. College policy states that fraternities and sororities must be nationally affiliated in order to be recognized on campus.

Cindy Lawson, director of student activities, explained that unrecognized Greek organizations who continue to operate "seem to prey on the freshmen." Lawson was concerned that freshmen, who are new to the campus, would not know the difference between pledging a recognized versus an unrecognized fraternity or sorority, and are, therefore, being taken advantage of. Lawson warns the freshmen that, if they want to be part of the Greek system on campus, they should pledge a recognized group. Unrecognized fraternities and sororities are not part of "Greek life" on campus.

The following Greek organizations are not recognized at Saint Leo College:

Delta Upsilon has lost its charter and is no longer recognized. Alpha Omicron Pi has lost its national charter, and is operating under the local name of Gamma Upsilon.

Local Greek organizations without national affiliation are not allowed on campus. Therefore, Gamma Upsilon is not recognized and freshmen should not pledge this organization. Freshmen should also remember that no freshman may pledge any organization until their second semester.

Mid-semester blues

By Thamir Kaddouri

This time of year is a time in which people slowly fall behind in their commitments. They find themselves drifting away into the mid semester blues. There is not much that you want to do. GET RID OF THESE FEELINGS! I know you have worked hard all year, and I know that you would hate to waste all those long hours of effort.

The Student Leadership Coalition is comprised of students, and we do sometimes get those mid-semester blues. Well, it doesn't take us much to get our act going, and I know that you can do the same. This semester we have a great selection of events to offer you, and in fact have been working diligently on next semester's events calendar.

Recently four members attended the National Association of Campus Activities conference in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. The purpose of this trip was to see and book events and performers for the upcoming year. We did just that!

I never thought that there was so much that SAINT LEO COLLEGE needed to do. SO--- Next semester we booked it all!

Without a doubt next semester will be the most exciting and enjoyable time that this college has seen in quite a while. I am aware of the fact that many students of age would like to responsibly consume alcohol at our events. The snack shack is open for most of all our events and provides you with the opportunity if of age, to purchase alcohol.

There are several pilot programs that the Coalition is looking into. One pilot program that will tentatively take place in November is our Channel 57 MOVIE NIGHT. What we would do is broadcast movies for your enjoyment in your own rooms. There will be promotional deals that will also give you a chance to win some fun prizes.

I only hope that you want to get involved with our activities. We can't drag you out of your rooms and make you have fun, but we can sure make you feel guilty for not attending. So to do that I will tell you what the Student Leadership Coalition has given away. As to date there has been money won in our game show, shirts and can coolers raffled off, and Tampa Bay Lightning tickets won. Next semester will be packed with fun times and free giveaways so come on out and have some fun.

Come out and support the Coalition because without a doubt "we are there to support you."

Attention Poets

The National Library of Poetry has announced that $12,000 in prizes will be awarded this year to over 250 poets in the North American Open Poetry Contest. The deadline for the contest is December 31, 1993. The contest is open to everyone and entry is FREE.

Any poet, whether previously published or not, can be a winner. Every poem entered also has a chance to be published in a deluxe, hardbound anthology.

To enter, send ONE original poem, any subject and any style, to the National Library of Poetry, 11419 Cronridge Drive, P. O. Box 704-ZN, Owings Mills, MD 21117. The poem should be no more than 20 lines, and the poet's name and address should appear on the top of the page. Entries must be postmarked by December 31, 1993. A new contest opens January 1, 1994.

Students who make a difference at Saint Leo College

By Jennifer Headley

In talking to my fellow students around campus, I have found that many people are interested in expressing their feelings about how so many different types of people attend Saint Leo College. After giving it much thought, I have decided to take this opportunity to introduce a new column. I feel that this is the perfect opportunity for the students to learn a little more about some of the people that they see in the halls, making them more than just another face from another class. In this article I interviewed two people, Jason Hammond, a 22-year-old senior criminology major from Brooklyn, N.Y., and M.C. Mophuting, a sport management major from the country of Botswana in Africa.

It's a sunny Friday afternoon, and I walk into the Student Chaplain office for my interview with Jason Hammond who is, as usual, concentrating on his studies. He offers me a seat. He is as comfortable and warm-hearted as the next person, and has an interesting story to tell.

Hammond is from Brooklyn, N.Y., which he quickly refers to as the hometown of both former heavy weight champion Mike Tyson and current champion Reddick Bowe. He was recruited by Saint Leo last fall to play basketball. He aspires to becoming a U.S. Federal Marshal.

While attending Saint Leo College, Hammond has been involved in several activities, including: being a member of the basketball team, serving as a summer RA for Roderick, former president and a still active member of BSU, and currently a student chaplain.

Hammond says that Saint Leo has benefited him in many ways. It has helped him to become a better person in the sense of communicating better with others on and off of campus, as well as inspiring him to pursue his future in law enforcement.

"I enjoy the faculty and staff here at SLC," he stated. "They were very supportive when I was going through some rough times, people such as Father Mike, Monsignor Mouch, the financial aid staff, Dr. Martin, Mrs. Koval, Dr. Quinn and John Schaly are a few of the people who have helped me tremendously.

"I would recommend Saint Leo to other students who were looking to find a place that was more of a home away from home. I would let them know that you are counted as individuals here. People know your name and care. There is an excellent academic environment here. It is also a place where one can develop physically and spiritually."

Although Hammond said that it was a major change to try to adjust to the weather, ways of life, and new people, it was all worth it.

"If you give Saint Leo a try, you can adjust here. And you will love it," he said.

Another impressive student to come up to me and express their interest in my column was Mpho Churchill Mophuting, better known as 'M.C.' He grew up in Botswana, a country in Africa. He heard about Saint Leo College from someone who had come to his country from the Tampa Bay area. This person had recommended Saint Leo to Mophuting, after he had explained to him what he wanted in college. Mophuting wanted a "small American college that was rural and homey." He wanted to escape the fast-paced craze of the city life, and go where the teachers see you as an individual, and not just another face in the class.

Mophuting is now a junior sport management major who is planning to graduate in December 1994, and begin teaching soon after. He is a man of many talents and is no stranger to participation. He is the president of BSU, treasurer of SLISA, and has also participated in dance concerts, as well as being a member of the soccer team. His favorite activity, however, is the martial arts.

Mophuting began his instruction in Tang Soo Do two years ago. From 1982-1991, he was involved in a Japanese form of martial arts called Shoto Kan. He is a 2nd degree black belt (two degrees from earning the title of master) and is in training for his next degree. There are nine degrees in all, and only after a certain period can they test to see if you are ready for the next level.

In questioning him about having to adjust not only to a new country, but also to a new school and environment as well, he tells me, "Being away from home doesn't bother me. I always believe that one can make anywhere his or her own home. I would recommend that people back home come to see what life at Saint Leo is all about."

Mophuting's warning to freshmen is: "If you isolate yourself, you limit yourself. Life is about understanding and getting along with people, and I believe that here at Saint Leo, you are getting an excellent chance to start."

Ex mea sententia

By Fredrick B. Ramlow

Why won't more people speak up in class? This is a question I have often pondered. When I attended Hillsborough Community College, few students ever spoke up in class. One of the instructors there once told me that he had resorted to insults to get students to say something in class; nothing else worked.

I was rather surprised to find out that students don't speak up in class here, either. Why? Why? Why? Well, I have a few ideas about this phenomenon I thought I would run by you. You may not like them, but I invite you to make up your own.

One possible reason that only a few people speak up in class is that everyone else thinks we are in the Church of Academia. If this is true, that means that the teacher is a High Priest of Academia and that the class is a service worshipping the gods of Academia. Obviously none of you would speak up, because everyone knows you don't speak up in church.

But then comes the question: "Who are those few people that do speak up in class?" They are the heretics; the questioning ones that must be burned out of the father Church of Academia so that the pure church can survive unquestioned.

But wait, before you gather your firewood, I must tell you I don't find this argument too convincing. Why? Well, I think few teachers would consider themselves to be high priests. Also, there never was and most likely never will be a Church of Academia. Finally, when we go to class we are not attending a church service. We are studying history, philosophy, English, and whatever else the college offers.

Another explanation as to why students don't speak up in class could be that there are actually very few students at Saint Leo College and the rest of you are just trained mice. Those of you with an interest in biology will remember that a few years ago a bio-technology company patented a mouse with the immune system of a human. This was done so that human disease could be studied more easily. It could be that this company, fresh from their immune system success, actually developed a mouse with the whole body of human.

Of course they would pick Florida to send all of their mice to, because it's such a transient state that no one would notice. The company forgot that mice are communal animals, so you stuck together and showed up here at Saint Leo. Needless to say, one day the company will discover their mistake and show up with trucks and tranquilizer guns to take you back to your cages. The main problem I have with this explanation is that it lowers people to the level of mice.

The most likely explanation as to why few students speak up in class is that no one ever told you that you could. There is an old saying that says, "It is better to be silent and be thought a fool, than to speak up and remove all doubt." This is, in many ways, a wise saying, but for the college student it is not helpful. We are all here to get an education or at least a better job. You are allowed to question and seek the truth.

I would go so far as to say that most teachers would prefer a question to a blank look. At least they would know that you are awake. While we are here all of us should take advantage of the ability to question our teachers and the thoughts that have been handed down to us through the ages. Socrates thought questioning was a divine commandment. Moses questioned God himself at the burning bush. Is it really that hard for us to ask a question in class?

It should not be. We are not mice. We are all students with brains and the ability to ask a question. So next time the opportunity presents itself, why doesn't one of us raise our hand and say something. Pick the right moment, don't be disruptive and ask away. Who knows, the answer may even help the rest of us to understand what the class is about. See you around campus.

Career Corner

By Jennifer Headley
Associate Editor

Welcome, Saint Leo students, to the Career Corner. This is the section of the paper that informs students about internship programs and scholarships that become available to the students from time to time. The director of the Career Center is Reneé Borns. Her office is located in the East wing of Saint Edward Hall.

In this article, I will provide a brief description of the program and if there are any further questions about the program, or if you believe that there could be something in one of the programs that could benefit you, feel free to come and talk to Reneé Borns.

The Capitol Experience is an experimental internship program. It emphasizes serious learning tailored to the goals of each student. It has experimental seminars which promote reflection on theory and practice. You can gain valuable "real world" experience as an academic intern in Washington, D.C.

FBI Honors Internship Program, which is implemented each summer, is a program intended to expose a number of outstanding college and graduate students to the FBI in order to promote their future interest in the FBI looking toward possible employment.

American Symphony Orchestra League is seeking applicants for the 1994-1995 Orchestra Management Fellowship Program. It is an on-the-job program that provides management candidates with broad, practical training in various areas of orchestra management and administration.

American Frozen Foods has a Sales Management College Internship Program for those students who are interested in sales/sales management. All interns experience a comprehensive hands-on overview of the opportunities available in an exciting sales career.

The Dow Jones Newspaper Fund Internship Program is available for those students who intend of pursuing a career in journalism.

NSF Graduate Research Fellowship Program is a national competition for graduate fellowships awarded by the National Science Foundation through its Graduate Research Fellowship Program.

The Elie Wiesel Foundation For Humanity has an essay contest which provides an opportunity for the undergraduate seniors at Saint Leo to compete for awards totaling $10,000. It is a way for students to analyze urgent ethical issues facing them in today's complex world.

Florida College Student of the Year Award provides up to $30,000 in scholarships and prizes to those students who support themselves through school, make superb grades, and are active members in the campus community.

There are some special dates coming up as far as career seminars and presentations. They are as follows:

Career Day

All students are encouraged to attend this career expo to network for possible job opportunities and learn more about the world-of-work. More than 25 representatives from private and non-profit organizations and graduate schools will be available.

RON'S WORLD RON'S WORLD RON'S WORLD

With apologies to those who thought they'd heard the last of me... I'm BAAAAaack. How do you like the new logo? Cool, eh? Let's get busy.

There's so much to talk about already this year, I barely knew where to start and, in fact, would probably still be sitting here staring vacantly at my screen and drooling over my keyboard in an attempt to decide between issues if something hadn't leapt out and screamed: "HIT ME!!!"

Let me say, for the record, that my eyes dry out easily and I absolutely hate drooling.

Thanks, Thamir.

For those who haven't guessed, I'm about to get into some new additions which came frighteningly close to getting into the constitution of the Student Leadership Coalition. Now, while I understand that all of these things have since been amended (in spite of Thamir's voting against each amendment), I still think that the attempt to get them in is worth talking about.

Sit down, hold on and pay attention - this gets good.

Okay boys, from the top. A-one and A-two.....

The newly-defunct Section 401 of Article 5, entitled "Authority" went: "ALL EXECUTIVE POW-ERS OF THE STUDENT LEADERSHIP COALITION ARE VESTED IN THE PRESIDENT."

(We will now pause while Professor Reynolds chokes and thrashes on the floor.)

This essentially means that there would be no system of checks and balances whatsoever and absolute power would be vested in our beloved, gracious, benevolent, snappy-dressing President For Life, the illustrious Thamir Kaddouri!

Whew! I almost got caught up in it myself for a second there!

On the subject of who can be on the Executive Board, Section 602 of Article 6 stated that candidates "MUST HAVE COMPLETED TWO SEMESTERS AT SAINT LEO COLLEGE AT THE TIME OF ELECTION."

A freshman at the end of his/her first year (election time) has not yet completed two semesters. This means that nobody of less than junior class standing can possibly hold a position on the Executive board. Neither can a transfer student in their second year at Saint Leo. But this is as it should be, for these are lowly underclassmen who are beneath notice and whose opinions count for noth... Aack! Augh! Ye Gods! The stuff's contagious! I think it soaks into the skin through the paper!

On to Section 604, dealing with the eligibility requirements of senators, which informed us that "...THE PRESIDENT OF THE COALITION RESERVES THE RIGHT TO CONDUCT EVALUATIONS" to determine the "EFFICIENCY OF OFFICERS."

That doesn't seem so bad until you notice that there is no such provision for evaluating the efficiency of the President himself, which would be improper in any case, as Thamir alone stands at the right hand of God and is above the judgment of petty mortals. . . . No! Out, vile excrement! Out I say!

I think an exorcism is in order here!

AH! One of my personal favorites! The Veto Override policy demands that, in order to overrule a presidential veto, the senate must "MEET WITHIN 72 HOURS" of said veto, but nowhere in the Notification of Veto Section was it required that the President notify the senate of the veto at all - he could just tell the Executive Board if he wanted to.

Yeah! Well, pay no attention to the man behind the curtain!

Finally, the masterstroke!

Section 1202 said that the duties of the executive officers could "BE REVISED AT ANYTIME BY THE POWER OF THE PRESIDENT."

Which means, obviously, that the president can make the workload of the Executive Board as heavy or as light as he wants - pretty much by whim or fancy.

Oh, shut up. I'm not talking to you anymore.

Fine with me.

After I worked through all of that, I asked myself why Thamir would try to sneak these things through. The first thing that leapt to my mind was that maybe he has no intention of graduating and really is trying to set himself up as "Dictator For Life." Next, the notion that maybe he's just trying to grab as much power as he can before he leaves - maybe even try to get a car out of it - came to mind. Then I thought that, maybe, I wasn't being fair, so I went out asking other people what they thought. Some people thought he was just being power-hungry, some thought he was just trying to be slick, and still others declined to comment. The most interesting idea I received came from a "nameless" faculty member, and introduced the possibility that Thamir could just be trying to break free of the shadow of his older brother, who was the "Big Man On Campus" when he went here (a fact I was unaware of). The thing that made that notion even more interesting was that it went with this statement:

"I knew John Kadourri. John Kadourri was in a few of my classes. Thamir is no John Kadourri." Wow.

Whatever the actual motivation was, I do think that getting caught at it was probably a bit of political bad luck that he was overdue for. After all, the luckiest thing that could have happened to him politically already did, when Dan Ferreras went to South Carolina.

A last interesting bit is that when the senate changed Thamir's additions and made them acceptable to the rest of us, Thamir, apparently in the throes of a tantrum, vetoed the entire constitution. Go figure.

Next thing you know, he'll be trying to lower the GPA requirements so he won't have to work so hard to keep being the president.

'Til next time, be good and be careful.

—Ron

P.S. - Just a quick note to Fred Ramlow. I read your column. Cool.

To be honest, though, I think the comparison belittles mice. Keep it up - it's good to have a column in the paper besides mine. Gives me something to read.

HOROSCOPE by Dafne Algasin

Capricorn (December 22 to January 19)

You have a new outlook on life. You are aware of the world around you, seeing things as if they were new, like a child. The world around you is also becoming aware of you. Recognition for hard work and discipline is coming your way. You are approaching a stage of confidence because you are accepting your emotions and expressing them. Be honest with yourself.

Aquarius (January 20 to February 18)

There is a change of mind and attitude coming up. This will be a deliberate change and an indication of rebellion. You will take a risk in order to get out of a boring situation and, unfortunately, you will not need the consequences. Whatever decisions you make will be based on your own opinions and not on what other people say and think. Your intelligence and knowledge will get you a position of prominence and respect. Change will take you closer to the achievement of your goal.

Pisces (February 19 to March 20)

This is the time to involve yourself in every social activity that you can find. Your imagination and energy are perfect for organizing projects, parties, and activities. You can handle the practical side of any venture, although you work more energetically if there is money involved. While you are still very protective of your mental privacy. As a reward for hard work, you will travel, broadening both physical and mental horizons.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)

There is an unresolved problem or situation in your life at this moment that you must settle before you can go on. You have been trying to ignore this problem, but there is no reason to do so. You have the qualities needed: responsibility, flexibility, confidence, and determination. Sometimes you make yourself suffer in order to manipulate others into doing things your way. Soon there will be a time when you can no longer do this, so you should stop harming yourself as you are the one who comes out losing. Get things going in your life. Once you make the necessary decisions, you will receive successful results.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)

There is something that you desire which seems easy to reach at this moment. It would be unwise to grasp for this without thinking of the consequences your actions will cause. Soon, circumstances will show you more clearly the problems that will arise from the decision to take what you want as soon as it is presented to you. Time will bring you that which you desire, only without a price attached to it. Good health, fortune, prominence, and the achievement of your dreams will come to you only with patience.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20)

To receive you must give. While you have trouble controlling your emotions and expressing them, an unexpected emotional experience will force you to see your feelings and actions from a different perspective. You will discard that which is unnecessary, keeping only that which is best for you. The possibility of a new project in your life enforces the necessity of making the right decisions.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22)

Unexpected events will force a change in financial matters. A fear of the unknown makes you reluctant to face the change, but the lure of security keeps you going. Through intelligent decisions you will reach your goals. You will be in a position to influence others, but you may be making the mistake of helping only those who exhibit talent useful to you. Others you treat with compassion, but you do not help them.

Leo (July 23 to August 22)

You are in a situation that you can no longer tolerate. To get out of this situation, a violent outburst is necessary. Rebellion will bring about the transformation. After the change, you will be able to look back and see things in the right perspective. And you will also be able to express your emotions in your own way, even if this is not socially acceptable. You are bright and intelligent. Use your talents to your advantage.

Virgo (August 23 to September 22)

Your life and ideas are undergoing a drastic change. This should be no problem for you because your strongest point is your flexibility and adaptability. Now is the time to involve yourself in financial and practical matters. You will find yourself enjoying the novelty of being honest with yourself. Through your joy you will inspire and help others to achieve their dreams. You are being more open with other people and with yourself. You are very active, always looking for a challenge, new situations.

Libra (September 23 to October 22)

Your single-minded, energetic, and ambitious personality as well as your ability to make objective decisions will help you receive rewards for your hard work and achievements. You are very confident and secure that all that you do is the right thing. Unfortunately, your habit of only helping people when the situation is to your advantage and your unquenchable thirst for power are not positive aspects of your actions, but there will come a point when you will see all around you in a different manner. The emotions that for long you have suppressed will come out into the open and there will be an end in one phase of your emotional life and a beginning in another.

Scorpio (October 23 to November 21)

You are in the middle of a rapidly deteriorating, financial situation. There is no way for you to go back to the way things were. To get the most out of this situation, you must take a risk, do the unexpected, show that you are an individual who can handle anything that life throws your way. While it may seem that you are moving from a position of security to the unknown, the change will be for the best and things will be better than before. You are in a satisfying relationship and this experience is allowing you to sympathize with the situations that others are in. You will be in an influential position where you must use your creative abilities.

Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21)

You have the bad habit of making yourself suffer in order to manipulate others into doing things your way. The only person that you are harming is yourself. You feel disappointed or unsatisfied with your life. People will begin to mistrust you. Instead of doing this, change the way you look at the world around you. You are a bright person who likes to talk, has many friends, and knows a lot of useful information as well as gossip. Be confident. You will receive recognition for hard work and newly discovered and employed abilities. This will create a good feeling about yourself and those around you and will also indicate emotional strength and enlightenment.

Soccer team bounces back

By Shayne Horan
Sports Editor

The 1993 Saint Leo College men's soccer team has started off the year with a 4-2 record. Opening their season at the Eckerd College Tournament, the Monarchs were defeated in two close games by scores of 3-2 against Augusta College and 2-1 against Pembroke State. Although they suffered these two very close losses, the team has bounced back to produce four straight blowouts, pounding Webber College by a score of 12-0, thrashing Clearwater Christian College by a score of 10-0, defeating Eckerd College by a score of 5-1, and downing Saint Thomas University by a score of 7-2. Team leaders so far this season are Sam Koleduk with 13 goals and four assists, Geoff Chisolm with four goals and five assists, Todd Debolt with five goals and one assist, and Steve Alvarez with two goals and six assists.

Women's cross country runners make strong showing

By Shayne Horan
Sports Editor

The women's cross country team finished the 1993 Florida Southern College Cross Country Invitational with four individual placers. This means that although the team itself did not place, there were four runners who produced strong finishes. Cassandra Grieshop finished on top for Saint Leo with a time of 27:00. Other placers include Brenda Flaig in 22nd place with a time of 27:03, Jennifer Varie in 32nd place with a time of 33:22, and Jennifer Higgins in 33rd place with a time of 34:10.

Men's cross country

By Shayne Horan
Sports Editor

The men's cross country team recently finished in sixth place at the Florida Southern College Cross Country Invitational with a total of 155 points. The eight-team invitational, which was held on September 18, was won by Flagler College, which compiled a low score of 58 points to take the title. Placing runners in the 10k event for Saint Leo were Jim Keefer with a time of 38:47 for 17th place, Don Monette with a time of 42:01 for 28th place, Mike duDomaine with a time of 43:21 for 35th place, Alek Aponte with a time of 43:47 for 37th place, and Todd Patterson with a time of 44:14 for 38th place.

Volleyball's turbulent record

By Shayne Horan
Sports Editor

The 1993 Saint Leo College volleyball team opened the season with a win over Webber College. After losing three tough matches to Nova University, Florida Southern, and Rollins College, the Monarchs have gone 2-1 in their last three meetings, losing a tough match to Barry University before defeating Clearwater Christian College and Southeastern College, bringing the team's record to 3-4.

Saint Leo College basketball player Jason Hammond shows off his basketball prowess during practice for the season opener November 22.
