New members join the SLC staff

Special to the Monarch

Theresa A. Laughead is the new academic counselor at Shaw Air Force Base. A former psychology and management instructor for Saint Leo at Shaw, Laughead has also taught at Central Carolina Technical College and Midlands Technical College as well as having been with the Educational Services Office in Germany. She holds a bachelor's degree in psychology and a master's in industrial/organizational psychology.

The new Financial Aid Clerk is Cheryl A. Beandoin, who has had extensive experience in customer service positions in both New Jersey and Florida. Her free time is filled with athletic activities involving her children, including Little League in San Antonio, the football league's cheerleaders in Zephyrhills, and the Pasco County Children's Chorus.

A new part-time person is Monica Reitzle, who has begun work in Purchasing. She has worked as a bookkeeper, secretary and administrative assistant in Maryland before relocating and joining the staff at Saint Leo. She likes the beaches, and enjoys gardening and restoring her 1967 Chevelle Malibu.

Liberal Arts and Sciences has a new staff assistant, Margaret Anne McGee, AKA Scotty. McGee has been an adjunct instructor for Saint Leo, teaching printmaking and drawing. She earned both her Bachelor of Arts and Master of Fine Arts degrees at the University of South Florida. She has also served as an adjunct at Pasco-Hernando Community College and taught full time at Valencia Community College in Orlando. McGee has won several prizes for her art work, including an award of merit and an honorable mention at the prestigious Winter Park Sidewalk Festival.

In Admissions, the new counselor is Perry Monastero. Monastero has his bachelor's degree from the University of Tampa, and gained his business experience from a previous employer, the John Casablanca Agency. A native of Pennsylvania and Connecticut, he enjoys jogging and running, reading, and watching hockey.

Dr. Jo Ann Farina Quinn has joined the student affairs staff at Saint Leo College as director of counseling. Quinn had been in private practice in Tampa until accepting this position.

She received her bachelor's, master's and Ph.D. degrees from the University of South Florida, is certified in elementary education and guidance and counseling and is a licensed mental health counselor.

Quinn's other positions include coordinator of guidance services for the St. Petersburg Diocese and positions as guidance counselor in Tampa-area Catholic schools. Her professional affiliations include membership in the American Association for Counseling and Development, the Association for Religious and Values Issues in Counseling and the National Catholic Education Association.

Political science adds professor

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

As of the Spring 1993 semester, Dr. Marco Rimanelli has joined the faculty of Saint Leo College as Assistant Professor of European and International Affairs. Rimanelli was born in Rome, Italy and returned there for his college education after being raised in New York City. He graduated Suma Cum Laude with a Bachelors in Political Science in 1980 from the University of Rome, which included the completion of a six hundred page thesis paper on Rhodesia.

Rimanelli then received a full fellowship to attend the School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University in Washington D.C.. The first year of his two year Masters program was spent in Bologna, Italy where he worked to complete a degree in European Studies. The second year was spent in Washington D.C. on the campus of the School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University. He concentrated on U.S. Policy and received his Masters Degree in 1983. He completed two seventy page thesis papers for his Masters on the topics of U.S./Italian Foreign Policy, Terrorism, and finally the U.S./South African Foreign Policy.

He received his doctorate in Security Studies of the United States and Europe in 1989 from the School of Advanced International Studies at John Hopkins University. His doctorate thesis was a two volume, one thousand page work on the foreign naval and strategic policy of Italy from the 1800's to the year 2000, which published in Fall 1993, will be his second published work.

In addition to his education Rimanelli has received an extensive background in the area of international affairs. From 1984 through 1987, he received one of sixteen NATO fellowships which provided a grant so that he could research a topic of international affairs affecting NATO. From 1987 through 1991, Dr. Rimanelli also taught at George Mason University in Virginia as an Assistant Professor of U.S. and European Politics and International Law. During this time he completed The 1891 Lynching of New Orleans and U.S. Italian Relations: Diplomacy-Mafia-Immigration. This work, his first published book, was released in March of 1992.

In 1991, Rimanelli joined the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency under a Foster Fellowship. He worked as an expert on European and Nuclear Affairs. This year and a half period included work on numerous treaties, including the Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty, which destroyed all U.S. and Soviet nuclear missiles in Europe, and the Short-Range Nuclear Forces understanding of 1991, and was a mutual understanding by the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. to destroy all short range missiles. He also assisted with sanctions against Iraq during the Persian Gulf War. Besides the ACDA, he has also worked with various "think tanks" in Italy, France and at George Washington University as a Foreign Affairs expert. He has published several articles and has completed a book on European terrorists which should be published by the end of the year.

At Saint Leo College, he will be responsible for all classes dealing with International Affairs. He also intends to continue publishing as well.

HRM department welcomes Olsen

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

Rebecca Olsen has recently joined the community of Saint Leo College as associate director of the Hotel & Restaurant Management Department. Olsen received a Bachelors of Science in Tourism and Commercial Travel from the University of South Alabama in Mobile, Alabama. She received her Masters in Convention Hospitality Management from the University of Alabama.

Her employment background serving in the sales and conference area of ARA for three years, director of Catering at the Pensacola Hilton, filling the role of the marketing and special events director at the Quietwater Beach Boardwalk. For almost two years, she was the catering manager at Saddlebrook Resort. Finally, Olsen was an adjunct professor of hospitality management at Schiller International.

Olsen came to Saint Leo because she wanted to enjoy an academic environment, and at the same time remain in contact with the industry.

Olsen offered several plans that she has for the program. The primary goal is to expand visibility for the department on and off Saint Leo campus. This included inviting members of the industry to the College. Through this, she hopes to offer future "networking possibilities" for the students. Olsen explained her desire to make certain that every student has a real chance of finding a satisfying career in the industry after graduation.

Committee works to aid the disabled

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

A committee has been formed to make the campus more readily accessible to the handicapped. This is in response to the American Disabilities Act of 1990. The act mandates certain guidelines for the accommodation of the handicapped.

The committee has been looking at each building on campus in an attempt to locate possible barriers to the handicapped, and they created a list of twenty-seven recommendations that detail the necessary changes needed to remove the obstacles that the disabled face at SLC.

The first list highlights problems outdoors and around the outside of buildings. They plan on searching the insides of buildings on campus for difficulties. Richard Reeves, programmer and trainer at the Administrative Computer Center, has been and is continuing to volunteer his time and effort to the committee in their search. Reeves is confined to a wheelchair and is thus able to offer the committee his perspective of the campus.

Bob Campbell, coordinator of Retention Services, has undertaken a second task in this study. Monsignor Frank M. Mouch, president of the College, has asked Campbell to take charge of the accommodations for those with hidden disabilities. These hidden disabilities include learning disabilities, epilepsy and others. Campbell is searching for ways to help those students become more successful at Saint Leo. Campbell is asking students with concerns, questions or suggestions to contact him at x8615 or visit him in his office in the basement of Saint Leo Hall.

In addition to Campbell and Reeves, the committee also includes Kathy Bell, director of Human Resources, Charlie Macke, director of Residential Life, and Jim Killmeyer, director of the Physical Plant.

We can't read your minds

By Thomas Turcotte
Editor

In the past, one of the most prominent problems at Saint Leo has been lack of student participation in campus activities. The Monarch is supposed to represent the views of the community of Saint Leo College. Unfortunately, the only viewpoints available are those of a handful of editors and staff writers. We, on the Monarch staff, want to represent your ideas, your concerns, and your questions, and the paper should be a forum for all students. While the editorial board tries to write about a variety of concerns, there is only so much we can do, and we need your help. If you want your views represented then you need to submit them. (Our deadlines are printed in this issue). Submit your letters to the editor and stories to the Monarch office, located on the second floor of the west wing Saint Edward Hall in room 238. All submitted materials should be on a 5 1/4 inch disk in WordPerfect 5.1. Your stories will be printed, and you will receive $5 for every printed story. Everyone wins when you contribute. We win when we have the privilege of representing your views. You win when your views are made clear to our readers, and as a bonus your wallet wins.

In addition, the paper is essentially free publicity for your events and fundraisers. Write stories about your organization's activities, and they will be printed too.

We try to print as great a variety of information as possible. The staff and editorial board consistently attempt to discover and present the views and events on the campus, but we are hardly omniscient. We do overlook some things, and we cannot read minds to discover your views. If you want your fair share of representation, then it is up to you to see that you receive it.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

The Monarch will begin dedicating a page of every issue to an open forum. A topic will be chosen and announced for each issue. Everyone is invited and asked to submit any questions or comments relating to the current topic. Responses from the appropriate individuals to your comments and questions will also be printed whenever possible.

The topic for the first issue is: Residential Life. Any submissions should be dropped off in the Office of Public Affairs located in the basement of Saint Francis Hall or in the Monarch office, Saint Edward Hall, Room 238

In addition, any items for future topics will also be accepted at this time. Thank you for your cooperation.

President's Corner

There is a saying that the more things change, the more they stay the same. Philosophers explain and may debate that adage, but I'm inclined at the moment simply to focus on the change side.

In a recent article written about the situation in colleges today, the author opens his remarks with a list of what were the most significant school problems of students in the 1940's in contrast to what they were in 1980. Here's the list:

- | 1940's | 1980 |
|------------------------|---------------|
| 1. Talking out of turn | Drug abuse |
| 2. Chewing gum | Alcohol abuse |
| 3. Making noise | Pregnancy |
| 4. Running in halls | Suicide |
| 5. Cutting in line | Rape |

- 6. Dress-code infractions
- 7. Littering
- Robbery
- Assault

That is change! And these changes do not reflect "guilt" of today's students so much (which is not to say that individuals are never personally responsible for these 1980 problems today) as they speak to the difficulties of maturing in today's societal climate. These problems developed among the older population and were handed down through the pressure on younger people to imitate adult behavior, to the point where they are not uncommon in many elementary schools as well.

What holds our society together at all is the fact that a substantial number of people either reject these 1980 problems as a part of their lives or grow out of them. Both of these paths to maturity take courageous steps in the process of schooling and they are what become determinant in one's life. Beyond that, there are some individuals who develop to the extent of being willing to help others struggle through their personal difficulties. This willingness and the help it prompts is what demonstrates the Christian character of their lives.

I guess I'm a bit shaken about the change of problems that has taken place. However, I'm all the more confident that our Christian vision and concern for one another will help us all become more solid citizens and mature human beings.

Theatre opens semester

By Kimberly Weissman
News Editor

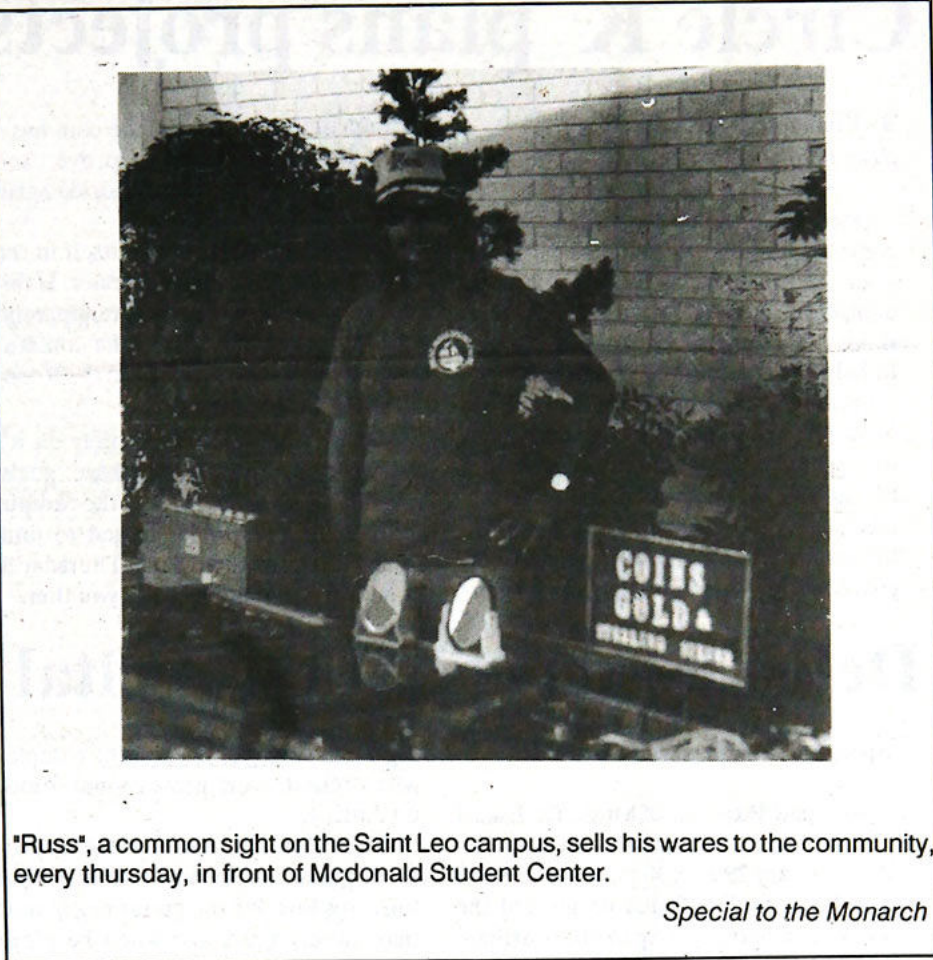

The first spring production by the Saint Leo College theater group is a sure winner when it comes to quality entertainment. The Good Doctor, written by Anton Chekov, is a series of short stories with various different scenes that contain happy, light-hearted endings. The play, which is adapted by famous playwright Neil Simon, includes 2 Acts with 6 scenes in each act. Professor Dennis Henry, directs the production, has selected this play because of its lighter, comical side and short scenes which will invariably captivate the audience's consistent attention.

Scott Graham, a junior theater major, will appear as the narrator who portrays the voice of Anton Chekov. Also in the cast of twelve are: Jerry Whitman, Matt Painter, Ami Salee, Erin Magner, Matt Kleinfelter, Mike Fagnoli, Brian Eves, Jessica Simmon, Terry Griffin, Ginger Sheehy, and Tanya Salyer, five of whom are theater majors.

Melody Sanders, a sophomore theater/dance major who is the assistant director and stage manager, also helps with rehearsals and the overall stage production.

The Good Doctor will be performed in the SLC Theater building on February 24-28. Saint Leo students are admitted free of charge and encouraged to come and support fellow students. Other prices are as follows: Adults-$5, Senior Citizens, non-SLC students, and children-$4.

Accounting club hosts speaker

By Dan Riggs
Monarch Staff Writer

On December 3, the Paciolo Accounting Club held its inaugural dinner in the Lion's Lounge.

Adele Richoll, of Lykes-Pasco Inc., was the guest speaker at the dinner. She has held many positions at Lykes Pasco: cost analyst, manager of cost accounting, and controller. Since 1982, she is an officer of the company and makes many presentations to other officers.

"Accountants are business advisors for those with capital investment. They are not just in the back of the room figuring numbers," she explained.

Being a controller involves bookkeeping, taking part in cost accounting, taxes, data entry, and control. Mrs. Richoll graduated from the University of South Florida with a bachelor's degree in accounting and was certified in 1981. She first began auditing in public accounting, but she left after three years.

"Public accounting does not involve decision-making. You just come in once a year and give recommendations. Private accounting has more responsibility," said Richoll on why she changed from public to private accounting.

One part of her job is hiring new individuals for accounting positions.

"I look for an individual who is organized and pays strong attention to detail, a self-starter always looking for new challenges, having the ability to set priorities and dealing with frequent change," she said.

Communication skills are also a must for an accountant. "If you want to do more than just crunch the numbers, communication is vital. Bad communication can cause bad decisions. Good verbal and written skills are a top priority," claims Richoll.

"Technology has become an important part of the accounting system today. The personal computer is almost vital and required for an accountant." Richoll stated, "The PC is very important. Having just one big computer is now outdated. IBM software and networking are popular. You must provide an electronic partnership. Your computer talks to mine basically. It reduces a lot of paperwork."

Before Richoll left she gave this good advice. "Take every class possible. The more you know the more responsibility you will have. Co-oping is a great experience and helps you when you first start out. The real world is a challenge. It could be a definite shock."

SLC offers student discount plan

By T.J. Bertani
Special to the Monarch

The discount program is one of the new and exciting programs that Student Leadership Coalition is sponsoring this year. The discount booklet, which you recently received last week, controls the names and locations of stores and establishments that are willing to give discounts on anything that a Saint Leo College student purchases. The process is easy. You visit a store or establishment listed in the booklet, pick out desired purchase, show your student i.d. and the appropriate discount will be taken off the original price. Only the stores and establishments listed in the booklet give the discounts.

Be on the lookout for more new and exciting programs from your Student Leader Coalition. Enjoy the program.

Circle K plans projects

By Kimberly Weissman
News Editor

Once again the new year has recently come to greet us. Circle K International, a service organization at Saint Leo recognized as the largest Circle K in Florida, is not hesitating to begin working again to help the campus and community.

Since returning to school from winter break, six eager members drove 10 hours to the small town of Gainesville, Georgia for the annual fall convention. They attended various workshops, which stressed the important concept of planning and goal-setting. With the District Convention upcoming in March, the club has a lot of hard work ahead to prove itself number one in the state of Florida again this year.

Circle K hopes to involve itself in the following programs this semester: Habitat for Humanity, Adopt-a-Grandparent, trips to a nursing home in the community, daycare at the Priory, and the Reading Assistance Program.

Because Circle K relies solely on it's members to accomplish these goals, anyone interested in serving the campus and community is encouraged to join. The meetings are held every Thursday in Crawford 8. We hope to see you there!

Delisi performs guitar recital

Special to the Monarch

Associate Professor of Music, Dr. Daniel Delisi, presented a guitar recital on Friday, January 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the Saint Leo Theatre. Dr. Delisi performed the works of a variety of Spanish, Brazilian, and Mexican composers, including Ponce, Villa-Lobos, Sor, and Torroba.

Delisi has been a member of the Saint Leo College faculty for six years, teaching classes in music history, voice, conducting, and guitar. He also directs the Oratorio Society which will be presenting Bach's St. John Passion, complete with orchestra and professional soloists on April 4.

While Delisi has devoted the majority of his guitar studies to a classical repertoire, his love for the guitar began more than twenty years ago when he played rock n' roll in high school.

"I quickly realized," Delisi said, "that the guitar can play comfortably in many styles. [It] is the most expressive instrument. It touches your emotions; can make you laugh or weep or feel nostalgic for distant times and places."

Foreign students describe their holiday breaks

By Kimberly Weissman
News Editor

Everyone is back on campus after the holidays and well into the new semester. The holidays were great and were celebrated in many ways. Whether an individual lives on the east or west coast, the holiday traditions seem to be the same whether the annual celebration be for Christmas or Hanukkah. Saint Leo College has many international students, and a few of them reported to the Monarch how they usually spend their holidays overseas.

Brenda Then, a junior accounting major from Hong Kong, described New Year's as a very important event. As the symbol of a brand new beginning, each family member purchases a new item for himself or the household to symbolize good luck. Kids receive what is known as "red pockets," which is money wrapped in a small red envelope given by aunts, uncles, or their parent's friends. A specialty of the holiday also includes a delicious New Year's cake.

For entertainment there is a fireworks celebration which lasts about 20 minutes, and attracts thousands of viewers, and is held in the harbor. A game called "dragon's catch wealth" is also a popular game played on New Year's. Two dragons (two people in each) compete for a roll of cabbage (a symbol of wealth) which is held in the air.

Haydee Galindo and Jessica Warren, both freshmen from Honduras, say Christmas is the time of year when families get together and share warm feelings associated with the holiday. On Christmas Eve, most families go to visit their family and close friends and exchange gifts until late into the night.

On Christmas day the families go to church and for lunch share a large feast together. The typical dishes of the season are, "tamales," "pollo relleno," "pierna de cerdo orneado," "hamon orneado," upside-down-pineapple cake, and other popular American courses.

On New Year's Eve, the upper-class families have parties at their homes after Midnight Mass. On January 6, a celebration known as "El Dia de los Tres Reyes Magos," takes place which translates in English to "The Day of the Three Kings." On this day, the kids pull their Christmas stockings out for candy. The holidays always prove to be a pleasant experience for the whole family.

Chico Oshiro, a senior psychology major from Japan, says New Year's day is considered more important than Christmas. Their is no gift exchange within family members, but couples exchange presents with each other or go out to eat. Young singles find it very important to have someone special to spend the holidays with each year.

Gigi Foof, a sophomore elementary education major from Germany, explained that whether an individual is Protestant or Catholic depends on how he will spend the holiday in Europe. The Protestants celebrate Christmas on Christmas Eve, and the Catholics celebrate Christmas on the morning of December 25. The Christmas tree has already been beautifully decorated sometime before, and after a traditional lunch or dinner, the family dresses nicely and goes to mass. The Catholics wait to attend the traditional Midnight Mass.

After church, the family heads back home and the children wait in a separate room while the parents make last minute touches to the tree and presents. When the children hear a bell or music, they enter the living room, where the Christmas tree is usually placed. Before they open their presents, Christmas carols are sung and a bottle of champagne is opened to wish each other a Merry Christmas. It is extremely interesting to see how each country has its own traditions when it comes to celebrating the holidays. It only goes to show that Christmas will always be everyone's favorite time of year.

Recruitment video given award

Special to the Monarch

The SLC student recruitment video has been selected one of only eight winners in the recent CASE District III competition. CASE stands for the Council for Advancement and Support of Education. It is considered the premier institutional advancement organization, with a membership of nearly 3,000 schools, colleges and universities in the United States and Canada.

To quote from the judges recognition report: "A downside in the rising tide of recruitment videos is that many shows are in the same boat. The genre has now evolved to the point of having an accepted formula that, while technically proficient, is aesthetically and creatively unimaginative.

"The productions that received awards this year transcended (the) audio and video cliches, exhibited a well-thought-out concept and showed a clear sense of marketing, resulting in videos that are as different as the institutions they illuminate.

"To stand out nationally, the video really has to rise above the average level of production, which is quite good."

Saint Leo College accepts the Award of Special Merit with a great deal of pride in the quality of excellence exhibited by our institution.

A copy of the video for viewing may be borrowed from the Office of Public Affairs. Also, watch for it on WSLC-TV Channel 57.

1993 New Year's resolutions made

By Kimberly Weissman
News Editor

Once again we are faced with declaring a promise which we will stick to and try our hardest to resist breaking at the beginning of each year. Yes, you guessed it. Our New Year's resolution. This tradition has caused quite a few people to go crazy, as it is very hard to change habits that have formed since our younger years. Though it is always fun to pledge a New Year's resolution, it is not as easy to keep it.

Many students on campus participated in the Monarch's survey to relate their New Year's resolution. The top three resolutions were: to quit drinking and smoking; to study harder and get better grades; and to eat healthy and exclude unnecessary snacks during the day. Some others came close to the majority as well and these included trying to be nicer to family and friends, respecting the rights of roommates, and keeping the partying to a minimum.

It is surprisingly scary how these good efforts start off so well in the first few weeks of the new year and then dwindle away like they were never even mentioned. With the help of family and good friends, these resolutions can be achieved if the individual has the will to change and the goal to do so. So what's it going to be? A New Year's resolution lost with the last collection of broken pledges, or a New Year headed for a new change?

Sincerely Yours,

Dear Sincerely Yours,

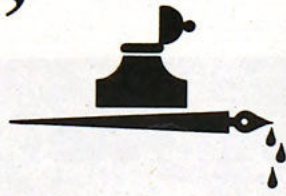

Can you please tell me why there is no excitement on this campus? I find that there is nothing to do, and I am constantly bored. Is there anything to do for people under 21 in Tampa? Since that is the closest city around, I figure that there must be something to do there. Just sign it me...

-Searching for Fun

Dear Searching For Fun,

Well, I can definitely say that you are not the only one. I know Dade City is the last resort for excitement, but Tampa can provide you with the night life you are looking for. There is a place downtown called Harbour Island which is fabulous for a date or friends. There is Caribbean dancing till 12 a.m., paddle boat rides on the water, surrounding clubs with more dancing and other activities, and more. I suggest you give it a shot and enjoy yourself!

-Sincerely Yours

Dear Sincerely Yours,

How long has the SLICK TV station been in existence? I had a TV station at my high school, and I was wondering if anyone can join. Though I never worked on one, I'd like to.

-D.E.W. in Snyder

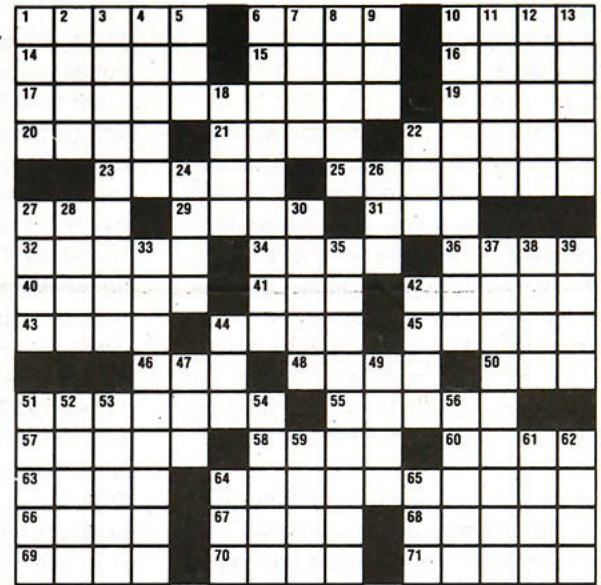

Dear D.E.W.,

That is great that you are interested in joining the SLICK TV crew! It is in its beginning stages since its first premiere broadcast last semester. The crew is eager for new members with or without experience to provide a decent broadcast for the SLC students and faculty. Contact Edith Ramlow at 8366 or Paulina Hamilton at 8389 for details.

-Sincerely Yours

ASK MR. COLLEGE

Q. Dear Mr. College, I have a ten page paper due next week and there's no way I'll be able to finish more than seven pages in time. Oh Mr. College, what should I do?!—Stupified

A. Dear Stupified; Go ahead and finish the first seven pages of the paper, ending the last page in mid sentence as if there should be a page following it. Then hand the paper in as if nothing is wrong. Your professor will assume the last few pages were lost. By the time he or she asks you about it, you'll have had time to finish the last three pages.

Q. Dear Mr. College, Whenever I paste down clippings from magazines, the glue gets all over my hands. When I try and scrape it off it causes chafing. Any suggestions—Ichy

A. Dear Ichy; You need to write to "Ask Mr. Collage". Happens all the time.

Culverhouse receives award at SLC

Special to the Monarch

Gay Culverhouse, president of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, has been chosen to receive Saint Leo College's "Achievement of Women in Sports Award." She is the first recipient of the award which will be presented on February 4, 1993 at the college's annual National Girls and Women in Sports Day banquet.

This is the third year that Saint Leo is participating in the program for National Girls and Women in Sports Day, celebrated each year on the first Thursday in February. The college has recently been named event coordinator for the State of Florida, and will be responsible for managing the celebration statewide in 1994.

Created nationally in 1987 as a day to remember Olympic volleyball great Flo Hyman for her numerous athletic achievements and to recognize the struggles of girls and women in sports, National Girls & Women in Sports Day has evolved into an opportunity to call attention to the positive influence of sport participation and the past and present achievements of all girls and women in sports. The program is sponsored nationally by J.C. Penney.

Saint Leo fields varsity teams for women in basketball, softball, tennis, volleyball and cross country that compete in the Sunshine State Conference in NCAA Division II. The SLC Athletic Hall of Fame, established in 1987, inducted its first female athlete in spring, 1992 - Cynthia D. Brooks, a basketball player from 1983-87. She was the first woman player in SLC history to score 1,000 points and is the second leading all-time scorer with 1,355 points.

Five players in SLC history have scored more than 1,000 points. In the past six years 23 Lady Monarchs in all sports were named to the Commissioner's Honor Roll, established by the conference commissioner to recognize those female student-athletes who maintained a 3.2 cumulative grade point average. In the past seven year 30 players have been named to the All-Conference teams.

The award recipient is chosen on the basis of her efforts to promote the cause of women in sports. Culverhouse will be honored for her efforts in the advancement of women in all phases of athletics. She is currently the only woman serving as president of a National Football League team.

She previously served as vice president and treasurer, and as vice president for community relations with the Bucs, as a professor at the University of South Florida College of Medicine and in research and development at Hope Haven Children's Hospital. She was recently elected chairwoman of the Greater Tampa Chamber of Commerce.

Noted for her strong civic commitment as well as her involvement in sports, she holds positions on the boards of several organizations, including All Children's Hospital, Moffitt Cancer Center, Humana Women's Hospital, the Hillsborough County Anti-Drug Alliance, Tampa Crossroads, Athena Society, 1000 Friends of Florida as well as several colleges and universities.

Score Board

By Dan Riggs
Monarch Staff Writer

Supporting my school teams has always been important to me. There is nothing like looking out into the stands and seeing your peers cheering you on. Believe me, it is very beneficial to how the game is played. A large raucous crowd provides inspiration and motivation when a team is down.

Every game should have the Bowman Activities Center filled to watch YOUR basketball team represent YOU. What else are you going to do at 7:30 p.m. on a weekday? But just taking up a seat is only half of it. I am disappointed that the crowds at the past couple of home games have been solem. Yes, I hear you cheer when a basket is made or a foul is called, but what about when the ball is being brought up the court or when the defense needs a stop? Those times are also important. Go ahead and yell when the other team is shooting a free throw or a shot is blocked.

Increasing crowd support can sometimes be difficult. Just because the team has had a few setbacks does not mean you should stop coming and cheering for the team. The games are free to students, for God's sake! Organizations should also take part in getting more people to games. Student Leadership Coalition, Interfraternity Council, sororities, and fraternities should all help.

Half-time contests (half-court shoot-out for instance) and many other activities could get the crowd more involved. As small as Saint Leo appears, we should all pull together and support our team. Times of games are posted throughout the campus. Bring as many friends as possible. If you are not there, you have absolutely no right to judge the team. That is what irks me the most: People coming up to me, asking the score and saying something bad about the team. It really disappoints me. The team deserves our support for their efforts; the more we cheer the better they'll be.

COME OUT AND HAVE FUN.
THROW A VICTORY PARTY AFTERWARDS IF YOU WANT.
