Students Ask Administration Reconsider O'Connor Case

While contracts were being negotiated recently, the word came down that Mr. Raymond O'Connor, Instructor of Business Administration, would not be rehired for the 1972-1973 academic year.

As many students anticipate the loss of Mr. O'Connor as a definite loss to the College Community, there is substantial concern regarding this matter. A group of business students, evidently upset over the news, have sponsored a petition which is asking for a reconsideration of the case. This petition was endorsed by over 250 students. Furthermore, said petition received the unanimous approval of the Student Senate.

Such students do not wish to oppose themselves to any individual. The students desire only to show the administration the admiration that is felt for Mr. O'Connor, with the hope that a reevaluation may be coming soon.

What is it about Mr. Raymond O'Connor which has evoked such admiration? Why is there so much concern about his possible departure? Could it be his dedication to the teaching profession which prompted him to give up a job in industry paying twice as much as his present job? Could it be his 12 years of impressive experience in teaching and industry?

Many students have indicated to the author that it is Mr. O'Connor's approach to teaching which produces such admiration. Such students point to O'Connor's receptiveness and concern, his honest respect for them as human beings and his insatiable willingness to help them with their problems - both academic and non-academic.

It is indeed in the non-academic realm where a great deal of the admiration is rooted. It should cause little surprise to find Mr. O'Connor at social functions of the students.

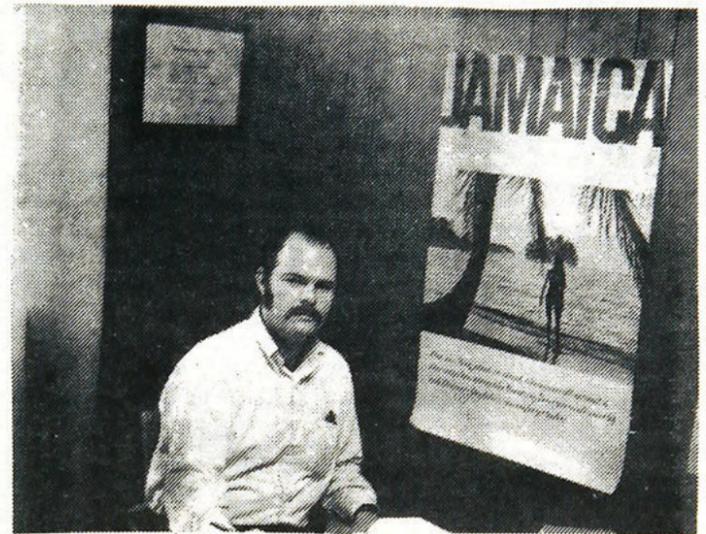

Mr. O'Connor believes that a teacher should be more than a mere reciter of textbooks. A teacher, as Mr. O'Connor sees it, should recognize the many dimensions of man. Such a recognition should not be restricted to a dry concept devoid of life, but rather it should address itself to the real lives of genuine human beings who have feelings, emotions, and aspirations.

Indeed, is not this personal touch, this concern, and this openness embodied in the very philosophy of a small college such as Saint Leo?

Perhaps it is senseless to go on. Many students do not care to engage in such speculation. They just think that Mr. O'Connor is a great teacher and a great human being.

It seems that a reconsideration would be warmly received by many members of the College Community.

Mr. Raymond O'Connor, Instructor of Business Administration, has become the center of controversy due to his apparent release for next year.

"PIGS" vs. "FREAKS" For Good Cause

Circle K International in coordination with the National Multiple Sclerosis Society will launch a three week program to involve youth in seeking a cure for this crippling disease which strikes people between the ages of 20 and 40. Here at Saint Leo College the Circle K club will coordinate and sponsor a 'Freak' vs. 'Pig' baseball game to be held at Massey Field in Dade City.

Multiple Sclerosis, a crippling disease, affects the central nervous system, such important body functions as walking, talking, seeing, hearing, eating, typing, opening a door, and trying a shoe are often affected. Multiple Sclerosis is usually progressive, proceeding in a series of unpredictable attacks, each attack usually causing further disability. There is no cure. The cause is yet to be found, but for the first time in the century old history of Multiple Sclerosis, the prospect has greatly improved for developing a preventive cure for the disease or more affective methods of treatment. New Research clues show promise of substantive proportions and must be exploited without delay. A potential breakthrough for a rehabilitative and a preventive cure via scientific is foreseen in the not too distant future if funds continue to remain available. The National Multiple Sclerosis Society has had many successes, but its main objective remains to wipe out Multiple Sclerosis. This fund raising event coordinated by Saint Leo College Circle K club will be held on February 20.

The "Pig Team" consisting of police officers from Dade City and the surrounding areas will feature on their team from among others, our own Charli Gordon, Chief of security here at the college. Also, Mr. Zimmerman of the San Antonio Police force and Chief Nixon, Chief of Police at Dade City. The "Freak Team" will be coordinated and coached by Jim Biondi.

The whole project individually sponsored by Frank Goosen will have three ways of raising money: (1) from the sale of tickets which will cost 50c (2) by soliciting merchants to buy adds for a program to be distributed at the game (3) from concessions sold at the game.

Vote Committee Active

Registration Drive Successful

Political Activities continue at Saint Leo February 7 through 10; be aware!

Actually, opportunity is knocking on February 7, 8 and 9 there will be a chance for all registered Florida residents at the college, who will not be able to return to their home counties for the March 14 Florida primary, to get applications for absentee ballots. These applications may be picked up in the Student Center at a table set up for this purpose. Be sure to take advantage of this offer.

On February 9 and 10, also in the Student Center, there will be booths set up for the respective campaigns of Lindsay, Wallace, Jackson, McGovern, Jenness and Pulley, and Muskie. A look through some of the candidates' campaign materials, brochures, etc., will surely be worth one's while in preparing one to utilize his newist right (and responsibility) of voting.

A committee of students has been organized to provide support for those presidential candidates listed above. If anyone is interested in working on any of these campaigns, or would like to organize a campaign for a presidential candidate not mentioned, please come by the office of the Student Vote in the basement of St. Francis Hall any weekday between 1 and 3 p.m.

The Student Vote Committee of Student Government is pleased to announce that last week's Absentee Registration Drive netted a total of 110 applications. For those who missed it, come by the Student Vote Office and we'll take care of you.

Campus Store Expands Food Now Available

The Campus Store in McDonald Center has expanded its services to provide for the students' convenience a stock of new items hitherto unavailable.

The expanded facilities were the fruit of the Student Government's Food and Price Committee which was commissioned to survey the services provided by area "snack type stores". As the result of this survey, the Committee felt that better services could be provided by Mr. Marcus Baker through the Campus Store. A committee was formed to make available frequently used items, at the most reasonable price possible. As Mr. Baker pointed out "The purpose of this experiment is not to profiteer from the students, but to provide a service for them. We shall try to sell any item the students demand at the lowest possible price. We believe that our plans will prove to be convenient and agreeable to the members of the Community."

If such experiments in expanded facilities work well, Mr. Baker will consider other helpful service proposals.

ROOTS OF APATHY

In the last issue of The Lion we explored the question "Does Apathy Exist At St. Leo?" Last week The Lion sent questionnaires to twenty-five teachers for a critical analysis of our paper, so that we may better serve the students. Keeping with the overall trend of this community less than one-half of the selected faculty responded. Less than one-half of our instructors cared enough to take a few minutes to write some constructive criticism.

If only a minority of educators are concerned enough to answer a plea for assistance that may benefit our entire student community, something is wrong!

I hesitated to write this due to an incident last year, in which a certain instructor (no longer here) rewarded my concern with a lower grade.

This past Wednesday, the Student Senate turned down a proposal that all meetings should be opened. The Senate, the Publications Board and other meetings of our representatives have been closed to the constituents

What do they discuss that is so clandestine? Do they feel the masses will storm the doors of Selby Auditorium and perpetrate a takeover? Hardly! Meetings that are open are attended by only a few interested parties who may have a contribution. Why bar these people from exercise their right of Expression.

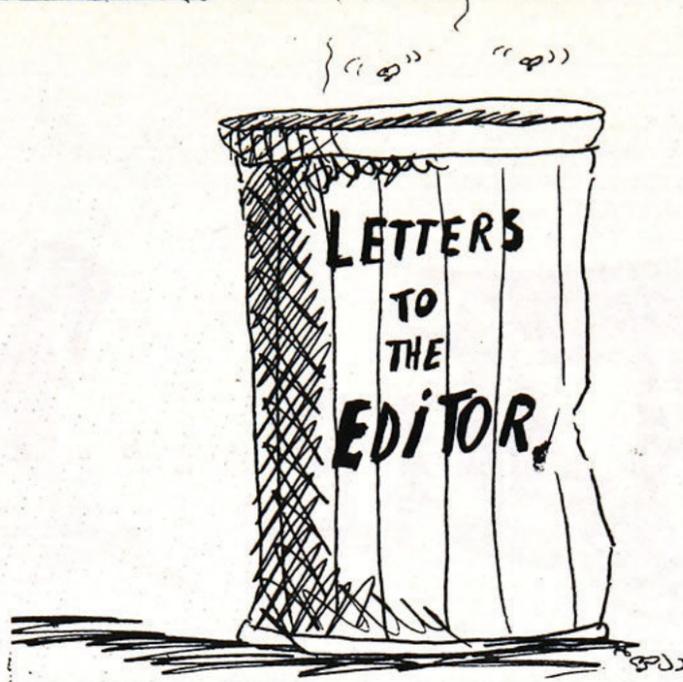

This is definitely an injustice to the student body and an encouragement of apathy.

If apathy or lack of concern is obvious among our faculty and student leaders let's not condemn the students.

My deepest sympathy to all those born in 1953 with numbers lower than 100.

Sources for legal aid for all those wanting to get out of the draft are available in our office.

I extend my apologies to all those offended by the Dr. Head article. The article was written for the humor and absurdity, not our condoning of drug abuse.

The Letters To The Editor are expressions of student opinions and are not altered in any way, shape or form.

Complete Discontent?

To Whom It May Concern:

In reference to the publication of the Lion, we the undersigned are using our right to express our opinions toward the subject matter and the manner in which this is presented.

First and foremost, we disapprove of the paper's constant endorsement to the use of drugs. As examples of this we offer you your December 13, 1971 edition as well as the January 21, 1972 edition. In the former copy we were amazed to find your articles concerning peanuts and glue. The article on glue was outrageous in as much as you explained the "bad scene" glue sniffing causes. Despite the afore stated fact, you completed the article with a detailed explanation of the process of glue sniffing. The later article astonished us by presenting a "stock exchange report" on the drug availability and quality on the Saint Leo campus, however we feel that use of the Lion as a means toward those ends is both uncalled for and unwarranted.

Secondly, it is our observation that the art of tasteful cartooning has been overlooked by the staff of the Lion. Quoting a line from your now associate editor, "Where is the Leo of former times who tried so hard to project an image of the courageous warrior?" We also would like to know the answer. Leo the Lion has transcended from the king of the jungle to a flea-bitten, peace flashing, pacifist through the cartooning of Mr. Geho. We refuse to be led by the banner of this spineless, jellyfish image and would appreciate the return of the real Leo the Lion. Along these same lines we have become outraged by the lack of taste concerning the "humorous" cartoons of this publication. Referring again to your December 13 edition Mr. Geho produced and you published three so-called cartoons. The first showing Santa Claus, looking as though he didn't make it through the war and surrounded by your ever-present flies, standing beside a lion. He is pictured with some sort of cigarette in his hand. The caption reads, "Have a safe TRIP home." Your underlining of the word trip gives us a reasonable idea as to the nature of said cigarette. This and the other two cartoons express a lack of taste which cannot be accepted.

Politically speaking, the Lion expresses a very one-sided view of our governmental process. Again we bring out Mr. Geho's cartooning talents. In your October 18, 1971 edition you expressed, as many times before, your displeasure with the current administration. Your depiction of our President as a puppet, regardless of personal opinions, was uncalled for. Again we see the ever present flies, so Mr. Geho we recommend you try your hand at something other than flies, toilets and presidential candidates.

In your December 13 edition you published an article concerning the practice of vegetarianism. While we hold no objections against this practice we object to the sympathy aspect employed to attempt to sway public opinion. Your insertion of the snapshot of the puppy was cute but irrelevant to the subject. In case his eminence the editor is not aware that we do not consume dogs may we so enlighten him.

In your most recent publication there was an unsigned, perhaps the article's content being the reason, "Student Flick Reviews." These movie reviews were done in a manner in which the reader wonders if the writer saw the movies or is eligible to view "R" rated movies. We both viewed the movie, "The Summer of 42", finding it probably the most refreshing and real to life to be released in the past two years. We share these opinions with most everyone we talked to about this movie. We would like to know the criteria you use in evaluating the cinema of today.

Finally, we are astonished that a faculty member serving in the capacity of Faculty Advisor would allow such material as the afore said, plus some we did not include, to be printed. If this is the result of his advising, perhaps Mr. Grossi is of little value in this employ.

It is our considered opinion that if bullshit were negotiable currency, thanks to your editing of the Lion, our school would not be crying for funds.

Sincerely yours,
Kevin F. Corbett
& Andrew T. Finn

A Stand For Oranges

Dear Editor:

In December of last year, there were flyers on campus informing the student body that the picking of oranges was prohibited and was punishable by a fine of 25 dollars.

In the Dade City and San Antonio law books there is a stiff fine of 500 dollars for anyone caught picking oranges in the groves of another. There are also harsh penalties for trespassing in another's groves and the like property.

In view of all this, their appeared in the bowl last week, huge letters of a certain fraternity on campus made out of oranges. A conservative estimate would put the number of oranges at roughly 4,000 in the makeup of letters. At 25 dollars apiece this would come to say roughly 100,000 dollars give or take a few.

These oranges in the bowl are now rotting, the innocent victims of some useless pledge class exercise. They cannot be eaten, except by the birds, and therefore these oranges are wasted completely and utterly. Since the oranges came from the Abbey groves, maybe a little fine would be order for AEX.

Signed FOO
Friends of Oranges

Dear Editor:

I truly enjoyed reading the last issue of "The Lion". However, that article by "Buck" Rogers about the ecology movement was so terrible that it must have been inspired by another type of movement (i.e. B. M.)

Final Draft Held For 19 Year Olds. Hopefully

March 6 and 7

Selected as

Numbers 1 and 2

As all you freshmen know the draft lottery was held Wednesday to determine what order men born in 1953 shall be drafted. And all you lucky men born on March 6 and March 7 are the first in line. The safest date was July 23 number 365 and September 9, number 364.

Draft Director Curtis Tarr said, "We do not yet know what the draft call will be in 1973." Officials later speculated that only numbers under 125 would be drafted.

Secretary Melvin Laird has said that there will be no draft calls before April of this year.

The administration hopes to have an all-volunteer army by June 30, 1973 when the current draft authority expires.

Here are the birth dates and the draft numbers:

Support For Kaye

The Lion:

In regard to John Conway's letter concerning the way Norm Kaye coaches it shows his lack of understanding under the conditions that Coach Kaye is under.

I'll grant that Mr. Conway is correct in saying that our team lacks size and is being intimidated quite often by taking careless shots but I still feel that Coach Kaye is doing the best he can considering some of his players' attitudes about quitting.

Mr. Conway's Hitler type coach who pushes and yells at his players in public has done this years before and he has produced winners! But nobody gripes until St. Leo has a losing season right Mr. Conway?

Coach Kaye can get very emotional but it is only to get their attention and reach them as effectively as he can in such a short period of time. Al McGuire of second ranked Marquette makes Coach Kaye seem like a flower child about his high discipline tactics and look at the results he has produced.

So Mr. Conway if anybody has s-t in their mouth I'm afraid it has to be you!

John H. Kelley

Dear Mr. Editor:

That letter from Mr. Kaye's critic in the last issue was not worthy of being printed in such a potentially fine publication.

I will not argue with the author, for as a wiseman once said: "One should never argue with a fool."

All that I ask is that in the future such letters be referred to the Counseling Department.

Sincerely,

A Fan of Mr. Kaye

Rapping the Cartoonist

Dear Editor

There are several points in your newspaper that I object to, the four letter words are my biggest complaint and the poor taste in which the cartoons are present is another.

The only people you are amusing are these students who are brainless enough to laugh at the trash you produce in the paper. It is a shame that you can't publish a paper measuring up to the college standards. I'll grant you are trying to get a strong reaction out of the students, but it is a negative reaction instead of a positive one. The use of four letter words might have gone over in the sixth grade gentlemen but lets start growing up a little, O.K.?

If the big "E" has the responsibility of organizing the newspaper then he should express his ideas with a little more maturity.

As far as the cartoonist is concerned he'd even be a long time bench warmer - trying to get his warped cartoons in Penthouse or Playboy.

Joe Albano

Dear Jim,

I respect your views and support your efforts to produce a quality publication. However, I would like to express to you my concern about some of the cartooning in "The Lion". Much of it I find to be lacking in humor or taste.

Sincerely yours,

Frank Kiley

Apathy and the Gym

Dear Editor:

Did you know that the St. Leo "Basketball Team" was on the court during the prayer and the national anthem for the first time in the 71-72 season in their "game" against U. of West Florida? They forgot to make their grand entrance that time. What are we, too good to show a little respect?

Well of course St. Leo is too good also to have an American flag in the gym, the closest thing we have are the no smoking signs. Why don't we sell a few more hot dogs and buy one.

Also, lets have a big hand for the "official" record player, without whose inspirational music I wouldn't make it through the Half time show. Let's get a new record - Fats Domino is Kaye's speed.

In regard to your Jan. 21st article entitled "What Can You Say About Our Team" Kaye's "magic bag of tricks..." has a hole in it.

Kirk McClelland

Dear Editor:

As I did not have the opportunity to respond to the apathy poll in the last issue, I would like to set forth my views on the matter in this media.

Yes, apathy does exist at St. Leo. The reason for it is that the students are not plugged into "real live being".

Sincerely,
Gordon Bond

WHEN Ed Stefankiewicz reported for the night shift in the lockup on the first floor of Baltimore police headquarters, he was advised to keep an eye on the stoned hippie who was talking to the walls in Cell 2. So when he noticed after midnight that Cell 2 was suddenly quiet, Officer Stefankiewicz opened the gate to the front row — where women, rum heads, and "mental cases" are usually kept — and walked the few steps to the second cell. In the shadows he saw a heavily bearded young man, naked, sitting on the bare, two-board bench that is the only furniture in each of the tiny, dismal cells.

"You all right?" the turnkey asked. The naked man glanced at him, he recalls, but said nothing.

The burly jailer returned to his desk, and busied himself with paper work for the next few minutes. Then, still wondering about the longhair's curious change of behavior, he decided to take another look. What he saw when he got to Cell 2 this time, Ed Stefankiewicz avows he will never forget. This is how he tells it:

The first thing that Stefankiewicz noticed was a pair of forearms jutting through the bars of the cell, the hands bloody. Behind the bars the young man, now wearing a hospital robe, stood in the shadows, stoically, almost spiritually. For an unreal moment, the hairy, robed apparition reminded Ed Stefankiewicz of a picture he had seen of the Apostle Paul. Yet there was a ghastly difference: Staring from this apostolic face were two mutilated, partially dislodged eyeballs.

"I am God. . . . Let me touch and save you," the apparition pronounced. Only after Stefankiewicz extended his arm for the touch of salvation would the blinded youth let his jailers put a strait jacket on him for the trip to the hospital.

Whether or not Charles Innes, in dark moments of lonely anguish or unreality, tried to gouge his eyes is hard to determine. The stark impression that Stefankiewicz retains is of torn eyeballs that apparently had been replaced in their sockets, only in front of the eyelids. A doctor who operated on Innes, but who asked not to be identified, says the eyes, though mutilated beyond repair, were never severed from the sockets.

Fantastic Series of Events

Five months later, after extensive psychiatric observation in a state hospital, Charles can finally talk about his longest and — he swears — his last "trip." An intelligent, articulate man of 25 from a distinguished Boston family, he recently described in a long interview the fantastic series of events that climaxed in Cell 2 last May 20. He says that he even remembers destroying his eyes — without feeling a thing.

Still, when the inevitable question comes — "Why did you do it?" — Charlie's characteristic volubility wavers, as though he were confronted by a specter. He becomes evasive, suspicious, agitated. Behind the red, shrunken, sightless eyes that the doctors couldn't repair must be awful memories that, for now at least, can't gain voice.

Even if he could unlock all his impressions of that night, however, Charlie Innes probably couldn't answer some questions that his experience raises: What provoked and prolonged such a bizarre trip? How can a drug so warp a person's mind and deaden his senses that, days after taking it, he could mutilate himself without feeling pain? Why would anybody take, or sell for human use, a drug with such terrible potential? Did the system of handling drug-abuse cases contribute to Charlie's tragedy?

The National Observer's inquiry into Charles Innes' case produced some chilling revelations:

- The underground drug market is so contaminated by ruthless profiteering, deception, and product falsification that it's practically impossible nowadays for even a veteran "head" to be sure of what he's buying.

- A potent drug known as PCP, marketed legitimately as an anesthetic and analgesic for animals, is being produced by "underground chemists" nationwide and foisted upon unwitting young buyers as everything from an "aphrodisiac" to "mescaline."

- There are widespread misconceptions among police and hospital personnel about how to handle and treat people under the influence of psychedelic drugs. Standard procedures for "drug cases" can exacerbate reactions from some drugs, especially psychotic effects.

Homemade Tragedies Beckon

All of this adds up to a disturbing conclusion: Not many people — dealers, dopers, or straights — know much about the homemade chemicals that untold young Americans are smoking, eating, or shooting into their veins.

Seldom has this fact been so shockingly illustrated as in the case of Charles Hiller Innes. There are no villains in his story, and no heroes. Only people, himself included, who had no way of knowing what a weird drug that he ate was doing to his body and mind. Consequently, those responsible for Innes in his last few days of sight did what they thought they should; they didn't know what else to do.

"I've accepted my blindness but I haven't accepted the blame," he says. "I know my actions in some ways led to it, but the actions of others were responsible too."

Charles still lives alone in the two-story rowhouse where it all started. He pays the $150 rent out of his $186 monthly welfare check. It's not a bad place to live: a quiet residential neighborhood in back of Memorial Stadium, where the Colts and Orioles play. But it's nothing like his boyhood homes.

He Blinded Himself in A Baltimore Jail

A Brahmin Background

He was named after his grandfather, a prominent lawyer and Republican politician who in 1911 founded the country's first night law school in Boston. Today motorists on Huntington Avenue in Boston see the name as they go through the Charles H. Innes Memorial Underpass.

Like his grandfather, Charlie's father, Charles J. Innes, devoted his professional life to law and GOP politics. He served 23 years in the Massachusetts legislature, and since 1956 has been counsel to the state Senate, which a couple weeks ago passed a resolution praising him as "a legal scholar, a legislative craftsman, and a most necessary and integral part of the legislative process."

Charles Hiller Innes, his parents' first son, was reared to follow in the footsteps of his father and grandfather. He recalls meeting the Kennedys in Boston and once accompanying his father to a national convention, where they had breakfast with Vice President and Mrs. Nixon. Inevitably, he was sent to the Noble and Greenough School in Dedham, Mass., to prepare for Harvard. A short, muscular lad, he rowed crew and made the soccer and wrestling teams. But his final grade average was a point or two low for Harvard, his father's alma mater, so he enrolled in Johns Hopkins University here instead.

The Drift Into Drugs

At Hopkins Charlie was an erratic student, nominally majoring in philosophy but auditing more and more courses just because they interested him. He turned on to marijuana and radical politics, and gravitated into Baltimore's drug-oriented counterculture. He split to San Francisco for a spell, and returned to Baltimore last year considering himself a permanent member of what he calls the Third World.

Last January Innes and Robert W. Rettman were arrested in a Baltimore suburb and charged with possession of cocaine. On May 14 undercover narcotics detectives, acting on a paid informant's evidence, obtained warrants to search Innes' and Rettman's residences.

There is little resemblance between Innes' and the police's version of events during the raid on his house. He says that the officers beat him; the police deny it. But this much is undisputed: When two plain-clothes men confronted Innes in the back yard that evening, he bolted into the house, grabbed a 35-mm. film can, and swallowed its contents.

'What Did Charlie Eat?'

Officer James Dugent recalls that all the way to the station Innes repeated slogans: "PCP . . . LSD . . . Peace . . . Right On. . . ." He was taken from the police station to Union Memorial Hospital, where his stomach was pumped. He was kept overnight, and released the next afternoon on $3,000 bail, charged with possession of marijuana. [Police say they found some residue in a homemade pipe in his kitchen.] The charge was later dismissed.

What did Charlie eat?

To this day, Jim Dugent believes that it was pot laced with LSD. He says he found in the film can "a residue of a green, grasslike substance" resembling marijuana, but that it wasn't enough to test. In the police file is a lab analysis indicating traces of LSD in the gastric material pumped out of Innes at the hospital. The man who runs the laboratory says that this analysis is no more than 85 percent certain.

But Innes insists that he ingested neither pot nor LSD, but parsley cured with "PCPA"—enough "to get at least 30 smokers high."

He describes PCPA as a derivative of PCP, an animal tranquilizer, but with "an extra molecule" that nobody knows much about. Once he referred to PCPA's the column labeled "Impression," and "advise psychiatric evaluation" is in the "Treatment" column.

'He Was Physically Normal'

Was the decision not to hospitalize Innes that night justified? This is one hospital official's rationale: "Our responsibility was to see if he was physically well or if there was an acute psychiatric emergency. The examination indicated that he was physically normal. And there was no evidence in the examination that he was intending to harm himself. I'm reasonably certain that if he had been kept here the same thing would have happened."

Frizell Bailey, for one, didn't like the idea of taking Charlie Innes back to jail in his condition. "It was never my opinion that he should have been put in that cell," Bailey says. "I think the doctors should have requested that he stay in the hospital under observation."

Yet there was nothing else for Bailey to do. After they had locked Charlie in Cell 2, Bailey went back to say good-by. Bailey recalls: "I said, 'You take care of yourself; I'm going to talk to the judge tomorrow morning and see if he can send you some place where you can be helped.' And he was holding my hand and saying, 'You're a good man, Frizell, you're really a good man.' He was standing there holding on."

About three hours later Charles Innes quietly blinded himself.

His impressions of that night are blurred, dismal: "There was a drunk on one side of me and a drunk on the other.

. . . The floor was slimy for a foot away from the john. . . . The cell was the filthiest place I had ever been in. . . . There was no pain. . . . I went through a rare spiritual experience."

He contends that his continuous pleas for water were ignored; Ed Stefankiewicz says Innes never asked for water.

The National Observer, after hearing his story, asked several authorities on psychedelic drugs to comment on the way Charlie was handled that week. None of their responses was positive.

Dr. David Smith, whose Haight-Ashbury clinic has treated countless drug-overdose cases in recent years, suggests that Charlie was the victim of a series of bad decisions: "There's a complex interaction among the chemical, the psychological state of the individual, physical factors, and environment. The worst time to take a drug like that is under duress, as he was when they raided his home. In general, when the person is in a delirious state, the act of pumping the stomach makes the situation worse. That was an extremely dangerous time for that kid, and he should have been in a hospital intensive-care unit, watched at all times. Jailing can be a major contributory factor in a drug-induced psychotic reaction."

Compounding Treatment's Problems

According to a new paper prepared for the Student Association for the Study of Hallucinogens, a private research company in Beloit, Wis., treatment for adverse reactions to psychedelic drugs should include these essentials: "A warm and nonthreatening environment; one-to-one contact with an empathetic individual who would be capable of determining the deterioration of the individual's physical state; protection from self-harm; and the availability of hospital facilities."

The problem of treating a spaced-out kid is compounded when nobody knows what he got loaded on.

Officer Dugent still believes that Charlie Innes gobbled an overdose of LSD-laced pot. Charlie insists that it was parsley sprinkled with PCPA; that's what the dealer told him it was. But there is strong circumstantial evidence that both are mistaken. What ripped Charles Innes was almost certainly "angel dust"—PCP.

There is widespread confusion about PCP and PCPA in the drug culture. Despite what he knows about chemistry, Charlie seems to hold some of the common misconceptions, including the one that PCPA is a derivative of PCP.

PCP: It Spells 'Danger'

They are, in fact, totally different kinds of drugs. PCPA is a synthetic chemical compound that can reduce the level of serotonin in the human brain. It has been used experimentally to treat patients with tumors and some mental patients. But the most publicized PCPA research was done by a team of visiting Italian scientists in Washington, D.C., who noticed that it increased sexual activity in rats and other animals. This inspired some underground chemists to manufacture the stuff and peddle it as an "aphrodisiac." But it never found a market in the counterculture.

Major Renovations In Campus Court

News from the Campus Court of Saint Leo College

The members of the Campus Court of Saint Leo College would like to make use of this media to express their sincere appreciation to those members of the Court who greatly contributed to said institution during the first semester, but are unable to continue in their capacities during the second semester. Such appreciation is accorded to: John O' Rourke, former Vice-President of the Court; Virginia O' Brien, former Secretary of the Court; and Associate Justices, Arthur Clarke, Mary O' Rourke, and Edward Carhart.

The Campus Court is proud to announce publicly the election of its newest members. Elected as faculty alternates to the Court were Dr. James Erpenbeck and Mrs. Ray N. Fleek. The new Senior Class Justices are Karen Connors and Karen De Nunzio, with Jane Mc Michael as the Senior Alternate. Sally Dickinson was elected to the capacity of Sophomore Justice, with Timothy Gleason acting as alternate. Jim Anderson was elected to the position of Freshmen Alternate.

The Campus Court is still searching for two Junior Justices and one Junior Alternate. If any junior is interested in seeking one of said positions, he should contact Colleen Murphy, President of the Campus Court, at 588-4101 - extension (334), before Sunday, February 6.

The Court has formed a committee to finalize the Court's procedure. The members of said committee are: Colleen Murphy, Dr. Mary Crosby, Mrs. Allan Powers, Kathy Gerdon, and Frank Kiley.

The members of the Campus Court are making every effort to provide the Community with an effective and equitable judicial institution.

Court Constitutional Changes

Article 1x Section I

Each of the voting judges shall have one vote at meetings and hearings. The president (or acting president) shall have voice but no vote. Freshmen shall be elected at the time of the freshmen elections in September of each academic year and shall sit as judges in the court with voice but no vote until the first court case in November.

Article VII Section IV

A case shall be heard without undue delay after the charges have been reported to the President of the Court. Special hearings may be called by the President of the Court.

Article IV Section IV

The Campus Court shall be composed of ten persons: eight students, one member of the teaching faculty, and one member of the administrative staff. Of the eight students, two shall be from the senior class, two from the junior class, two from the sophomore class, and two from the in-coming freshman class, to be elected in September.

The members of the Court are dedicated to uphold the principles of good citizenship. Attempts to influence a member's performance through intimidation by any means shall be cause for immediate dismissal.

Article IV Section VIII was amended to read as follows:

Each judge must uphold the correct college catalogue and Student Handbook.

Article IV Section IX to read as follows:

The Court shall elect one of the members to serve as President of the Court. The other representatives to the Court shall be known as voting judges.

Article IV Section II

In addition to the 13 elected students, there shall be one alternative member elected from each of the four classes.

Article X Section II and Section III: Delete.

The above amendments to the Constitution of the Campus Court, effective since September 1971, were voted on and passed at the Student Senate meeting September 1971

Further revisions were approved at the Student Senate meeting of January 26, 1972.

Colleen Murphy, President of the Court, moved to amend Article IV, Section I to read as follows:

The conduct of the judge must be beyond reproach, i.e. his personal life as a student should manifest a genuine and Sincere obedience to established college policy.

Article VI Section III amended to read as follows:

The Secretary shall keep full minutes of the meetings.

Article VI Section IV amended to read as follows:

It shall be the duty of each member of the Court to attend all meetings and hearings. Three absences from such meetings and hearings will result in immediate dismissal.

Article VI (By-laws) Section I to read as follows:

In the May Session and during all other sessions, a committee of approximately the same faculty, student, and administration ratio as the court will hear all disciplinary cases.

Tomorrow, February 5, the student married couples will meet in the Gold Room at 8 p.m. All married couples are welcome to attend. The program will be an informal discussion centered around the film, "The Hat." Refreshments will be provided to help the discussion along.

The Department of Religious Programs will begin circulating a bulletin early next week. The purpose is to give notice of programs from this area and further to provide thoughts and direction on current religious concerns. All contributions are welcomed.

Father Jude will direct a Religion Education Day at Zephyrhills on Sunday, February 6 at 12:00 for St. Joseph's and St. Anthony's parish. The group of students who have been meeting with Father Jude here on campus will serve as general discussion leaders for this program. We are interested in building up our discussion team, with hopes of meeting in the various dorms, if you are interested drop by our office in St. Edwards for details.

The Student Senate is presently in the process of co-ordinating a special mass celebration for February 20, the first Sunday of Lent. It is hoped that the college - at - large will attend and special emphasis will be placed on the attendance of the various sororities and fraternities since the pledges (hopefully all) will have been received by then. The mass is planned for 10 p.m. and will be celebrated in the area between Crawford Hall and Selby Auditorium.

The Diocesan Search Program is now open to college freshman. The program consists of a weekend Christian community experience. The purpose is to reinforce Christian commitment through a leadership program geared to send students back into their schools, homes, and dorms where they may act as leavens to their peers. The process of building this Christian community is through a sharing with the staff and a back-up team of priests and religious. The next scheduled weekend is February 18-20 at Camp Kimbal, east of Bradenton. Application forms are available in the office of Religion Programs in St. Edwards Hall. The cost of the weekend is $15. This includes meals, snacks, insurance and administrative expenses.

Pre-Cana Conferences will begin Sunday, February 6. These are a series of presentation discussions for those seriously considering marriage in the not-too distant future. Outside participants may include already married couples, doctors, and lawyers. It is hoped that all aspects within reason, of the married state will be presented

She Died For What She Believed

Seven years ago, in Delano, California, the first prominent recognition of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee was realized. On January 25, 1972 Miss Nan Freeman was killed while picketing the Talisman Sugar Corporation in South Bay, Florida... This tragedy was unforeseen but it proves a point; people of our own age and sharing our own interests are getting involved in socially important issues. Miss Freeman, who was attending New College in Sarasota at the time of her death, was basically the same as you and I, and if there was indeed any difference it lies only in the fact that she was not afraid or reluctant to stand up for what she believed in.

Just what Miss Freeman believed in was justice, sensitivity, and a chance for 200 migrant workers to have a voice in the future. The 200 workers who walked out of the Talisman Sugar plant did so because they had been working as much as 125 hours a week with no overtime whatsoever. Also, they were in a position which offered no job security at all, no health benefits and no chance for a better job in the future. Many of these workers lived in Miami and had to commute on a daily basis.

These striking workers have no income, and they have supposedly lost their jobs over the strike. With no jobs they naturally have no food, clothing and an endless variety of other commodities that we take for granted on a day to day basis. For them, life is tough... For every migrant worker who is subjected to the inhumane treatment of the agribusiness establishment life is also tough.

St. Leo, and its students, are in a fine position to help the cause of the migrant worker. There are many ways in which to help, in fact that is the purpose of this article.

"Helping", or simply the thought of breaking one's everyday routine (no matter how frivolous it may be) seems to scare people. The "who me!" attitude is deeply entrenched in many of our students... and the longer this attitude exists the deeper and stronger it becomes.

Perhaps if I list some of the ways that you, as students, can help, then maybe you'll see for yourself that you're really not losing anything by helping... in fact you might gain something along the way!

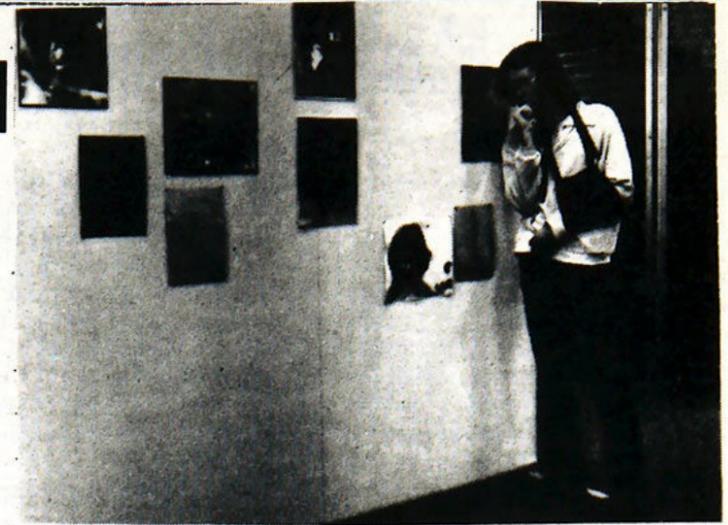

First there is the strike. With no job there is no food. Canned goods and donations are vital if the strike is to carry any resemblance of being successful. How much does a can of beans cost? Could you afford to buy one and give it to these people?

Next there is the pressing business of boycotting a group of premium wines grown in the Napa Valley. The workers who work for these corporations (Wente Brothers, Samuel Sebastini, Beringer Bros., F. Korbel and Sons, C. Krug Winery, Louis Martini, and Weibel Inc.) have requested that they be represented by UFWOC and their requests have been denied. In retaliation UFWOC is boycotting stores which carry these wines... but people to boycott must be found.

Finally, UFWOC representatives on campus have posters and buttons to sell, (at 25 cents and $1.25 respectively). Surely the prices will not break anyone's bank!

If anyone is at all interested in any way please don't hesitate to contact either Dr. Horgan (Office in Carmel Hall) or Dan Pfaffenbach (room 217 Benoit). We will be glad to explain what is going on and just how specifically you, as an individual, can help. UFWOC extends its thanks to Club '67' for the night they gave to the Farm Workers and their cause.

Clayton Verge, Saint Leo College junior, looks at himself at Florida Technological University, Orlando. The one-man showing of Brother Bernard's portraits and poetry was held in the main gallery of the university from January 17-28. It was received with wide acclaim.

Dr. Head O.D.'s

Dr. Head, former columnist of The Lion, was found dead in a nearby cow pasture smiling obnoxiously and clutching a slightly burnt Mexican magic mushroom.

Dr. Head, a retired abortionist from New York, came to reside in Dade City and quickly volunteered his services to the St. Leo drug crusade. A cutting satire on the drug situation, depicting the absurdity of the amount of money spent on drugs was his first endeavor. He agreed to analyze potentially dangerous drugs found locally. The autopsy at Jackson Memorial Hospital confirmed Dr. Head's hypothesis about the magic mushroom's potency.

Further testing concluded that the afore-mentioned mushrooms were associated with various diseases passed on through the manure which serves as a medium.

in this series. Topics of discussion include: building, love and marriage, communication, backgrounds brought to marriage, achieving sexual enjoyment, respect and responsibility in marriage.

On Sunday, February 13, on WTVT (channel 13) the folk group from our campus will televise the mass for shut-ins. This is part of the diocesan program of monthly televised masses.

Semester break ends on Ash Wednesday. A penance celebration is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Priory Chapel, ashes will be distributed. This is an excellent opportunity to get Lent off to a good start. Volunteers are needed for some of the readings.

The first meeting of the advisory Board to the Dean of Women was held on Sunday, January 16. At this session, many ideas pertinent not only to the women students, but to all, were discussed. Among those ideas raised, were the qualifications for admissions standards, public relations and the academic image of the college. Also, women's rights were discussed including equalizing the malefemale ratio on campus and the possibility of co-ed dorms. The question of the $25 room key deposit was brought up, concerning why the women must pay more than the men.

At the forth coming meeting feedback on many suggestions will be analyzed and new proposals made.

All students who have applied for absentee registration in their home states in conjunction with the drive sponsored by the Student Vote Committee of S.G.A. are asked to bring their completed registration forms to the office of the Student Vote in the basement of St. Francis Hall. The Student Vote will provide for free notary services. You should be receiving the registration forms from - your local registrars shortly.

Music Scene

Humble Pie, one of the more talented hard rock groups, like most bands these days, have come out with a live LP. And as half of them are, this one too was recorded at the—you guessed it—the Fillmore, appropriately titled "Performance - Rockin' The Fillmore."

The album being one of those "specially priced" 2 - record sets, which usually turn out to be a piece disregarded junk, contain quite a lot of good sounds for you hard rock listeners. The musicians Steve Marriot-vocals, guitar, and harp, Greg Ridley - bass, vocals, Pete Trampton vocal, guitar, and Jerry Shirley - drums, comprise one of the more talented foursomes around.

Both records add up to 7 songs. Marriot once again, makes the album with his loud free-wheeling singing style. Three of the tunes are from previous records "Am Ready", from their first release, opens with Marriot singing a solo which is counteracted by an answering guitar. This finally leads into a Sherley drum beat which moves right into the loud guitar rhythms of the song. "Rolling Stone" and "Stone Cold Fever" both came off their "Rock On" LP. "Rolling Stone" with Marriot telling a two-part version, which includes one "beep" and a little solo singing, from one of those great Fillmore audiences. He came up with the ultimate solution "When you're in a corner and you want to get out you join a band then you going to travel all over the land not one place going to tie you down."

"I walked on Gilded Splinters", all 24½ drawn out minutes strums along with some good guitar play and a little harp solo from Marriot. "I Don't Need No Doctor" closes out the LP, which is presented in concert form with a rather long version. Marriot once again excels in his singing and his instrumental lacking especially some good guitar playing keeps the song from bogging down.

Its better than most live albums, with a lot of good material in it. The singing is extremely good, with three capable lead singers, including Marriot, who ranks up there with the "Stewarts" and "Winwoods". The guitar playing, though loud, lays a good rhythm down and the drumming is not bad. What's left to say, except when you play it, play it loud.

Charlie's Trip....

PCP, on the other hand, is an anesthetic that in small doses can produce a moderate "high" but in drug darts can immobilize a rhino. The only pharmaceutical company licensed to market the drug—phencyclidine—restricts its sales to veterinarians for experiments with animals. The label on each container reads: "Sernylan [the trade name] is a potent drug which produces disorientation in many species. It must not be used in animals other than primates."

PCP's Bad Side Effects

Studies in the 1950s produced some hope that phencyclidine could become an effective anesthetic for humans. It depresses the central nervous system so that a wide-awake person does not feel pain. But in many people it also induced anxiety, depression, fear, excitability, and, in higher dosages, delusions, confusion and weird behavior.

An extreme overdose of PCP conceivably could provoke the side effects that Innes experienced. Smoked, the drug produces a marijuanalike high; ingested in larger doses, it can trigger extended delusions and paranoia much like an LSD trip.

The most compelling evidence that PCP caused Innes' tragedy is in a 1959 paper written by a research team at Wayne State University that administered the drug to 102 patients. To some people who were given large doses, the scientists reported, "objects seemed to 'float away' and the subjects had the sensation that the body went numb and was displaced. . . . Many of our patients with strong religious backgrounds reported 'God was taking them away,' or that they were being 'carried up into the clouds.'" (Charlie's prattle in jail continuously mentioned God.) One woman in the Wayne State study stayed in a "prolonged state of confusional psychosis" for four days.

Drug Has Many Guises

Understandably, PCP has never become very popular in the underground-drug market. But its illicit producers won't stop trying: They simply turn it out in a variety of forms and hawk it under different names. It first emerged in California in 1967 as the "Peace Pill." The next year it was peddled in capsules passed off as "THC," which is thought to be the active ingredient in marijuana. In 1969 it reappeared as "Hog."

Last year PCP was sprinkled on oregano and parsley and smoked as "angel dust"—confounding police, who kept confiscating stuff that looked like pot but didn't pass the lab tests for marijuana. Most of the "mescaline" being peddled this year, according to students of the drug culture, is PCP or LSD in disguise. Furthermore, many chemists combine PCP with another substance without telling anybody.

"These people have learned marketing techniques from their parents," San Francisco's Dr. Smith points out sarcastically.

PCP, or "PCPA," hasn't been available in Baltimore, Charlie has been told, since he freaked out. Kids elsewhere are still eating and smoking it, though, whether they realize it or not. Many dealers and customers heard the macabre story of the hippie who gouged out his eyes, but counterculture sources say that not many believe it. The prevailing view is that the story was just another drug-scare hoax promulgated by the "narcs."

That's one reason to hope that Charles Innes realizes one of his ambitions: to become a drug counselor. For anybody who looks into those dead eyes sees that Charlie has been where nobody wants to go.

To All-Conference Team

Morris, Santoro Selected

Senior Peter Morris of Fairport, N.Y. and junior Carmen Santoro of Westville Grove, N.J. were selected last week to the 1971 All-Conference First Team of the Florida Independent Soccer Conference. Both were chosen at the forward position for their efforts in leading the Monarchs to a five win and six loss season, including a season ending four game winning streak.

Morris was chosen twice as a second team All-Conference Forward, but never as a first team selection. This was the second time that Santoro was selected to the First Team All-Conference squad.

Selected to the 1971 All-Conference Second Team were junior Bobby Baker of Millburn, N.J. and at fullback freshman Steve Erbe of Spring Lake, N.J. It was the first time that either were picked to the team.

By putting four players on the All-Conference squads, the Monarch soccer season officially comes to a close. This year the Monarchs ended up in third place in the soccer conference, to Florida Southern and Rollins, both of which went to the NCAA Regional Tournament held at Lakeland.

One of three graduating seniors, Morris, closes out four years of varsity soccer competition in a St. Leo uniform. He led the Monarchs in goals scored this year with eleven, his highest total ever. Over the last two weeks of the season, Pete scored eight goals, to help the surge that paced the Monarchs to four wins in a row.

Carmen Santoro, in only his second year as a Monarch, is again honored to be selected First Team All-Conference forward. This year he scored five goals and three assists for a total of eight points.

Steve Erbe, was runner up to Morris in the individual SLC scoring honors and finished the season with eight goals and one assist for a total of nine points.

Bob Baker, led the Monarchs in assists with six, as he finished his first full soccer season. Last year mid-way through the year he joined the soccer team and played much over the last few games of the season.

It was also learned last week that Santoro and Morris were selected to the Orlando Sentinel's 1971 Florida All-State Team under the category of Honorable Mention. This is the first time that a St. Leo player has been chosen for this honor.

Final soccer scoring statistics which were released last week by the conference show that Pete Morris was second in points scored with six goals and five assists for a total of eleven points. Steve Erbe was fifth in scoring with five goals and one assist for a total of six points. Carmen Santoro was sixth in scoring with two goals and four assists for a total of six points.

Goalie Rick Harmon was third in the conference with an average of 2.5 goals per game. In the season he allowed just 17 goals in 5 games. Charlie Wooters was sixth in the conference with an average of 6.0 goals per game. He allowed just 16 goals in 6 games for the Monarchs this year.

This brings to an end one of the better St. Leo soccer seasons, and all hopes are high for next year's team.

Not Everyone Watches the Super Bowl.

Monday, January 17th: As I entered my early class, the words "TV" and "Souper Bowl" caught my ear. I was mildly suprised that my freshmen were intrigued by what I surmised to be Julia Childs' program on the preparation of French Leek Soup. Dismissing this momentary diversion, I launched into my introduction to the Laurenz Curve and the Gini Index - Usually a crowd pleaser. Soon I became aware of an undercurrent of emotional involvement that exceeded classroom propriety when one student crammed a copy of KARL DEUTSCH down another's throat. A suspicion arose that the Gini Index was not solely responsible for the emotions gripping the class.

Some astute questioning elicited the information that an American football game of some importance had been played the preceeding day. Now, I am not a stranger to American football. As a youth, it had provided me a brief diversion until at age eight or nine, I turned to more sophisticated competition for

The Monarchs will be in action tonight when they face the Palm Beach Atlantic Sailfish of West Palm Beach. Two weeks ago the Sailfish beat the Monarchs by the score of 87 to 64.

Monarchs Preview 35 Game Schedule

Head Basketball Coach Bill Meyer unveiled a 35 game schedule for the upcoming 1972 St. Leo baseball season. Each year the Monarchs take on the best schools in Florida and from up north. This year is no exception as the Monarchs try to improve on last year's trip to the NCAA Regional Tournament in Norfolk, Virginia.

The schedule features games with perennial powerhouse Florida State, small college foe Austin Peay University, University of North Carolina, Lewis College of Illinois, and northern toughie Temple University. Also included are Florida opponents including: Rollins, Stetson, Tampa, South Florida, and Biscayne College of Miami.

Of the thirty five games this year, eleven are away and twenty-four are at Dade City's Massey Field. The Monarchs will play five games under the lights and there will also be two double-headers.

Tennis Begins

One of the most played and least publicized sports is the game of tennis which each year attracts thousands of participants both young and old alike. At Saint Leo, the sport is relegated to a position as a minor sport, but this does not reduce the quality nor excellence of the play.

Each year the Athletic Department and Mr. Thomas Crosby, field a team that plays some outstanding Florida opponents and visiting northern teams. The eight member squad has been practicing daily for their match against Florida Southern University of Lakeland on February 21. This outing will preview a fourteen match schedule against twelve Florida opponents and two out-of-state opponents. Coach Crosby will have no returning players from last years team, which won one of seven matches with four forfeits. Graduated from last years team were Jack Rueve, Tom Libby and Bill Kiley.

This years team is composed of two junior college transfers, one junior, one sophomore and four freshmen. The juniors are: Mark Babst, Bob Martin, and Mark Steward. The lone sophomore is Pat Brannigan, and rounding out the team are four freshmen: Vic Carter, Guy Cunningham, Joe Lawer and John Procter.

"They are working very hard," said Coach Crosby, "in preparation for a successful season." He further stated, "that practice is the single most requirement for a winning season, one item that was overlooked by last years team."

The home tennis schedule is as follows: Feb. 21, Florida Southern University, Feb. 25, Embry Riddle University, Feb. 26, Florida Presbyterian College, March 4, Stetson University, March 18, Florida Atlantic College, March 24, Embry Riddle University, April 3, Emory and Henry College, April 12, University of Tampa, and April 15, Cumberland College.

On the road the Monarchs will face the Tritons of Florida Presbyterian on March 3, the Moccassins of Florida Southern on March 9, Florida Atlantic College on April 8, Stetson University on April 13, and the University of Tampa Spartans on April 17, to close out their 1972 season.

An engagement with each school will include six singles matches and three doubles matches. The weekday matches will usually begin at 2:00, so if you like tennis action, not exactly Davis Cup, come out, see and support the Monarch tennis team.

Cambria To Coach

With the 1972 St. Leo baseball season practically upon us, fans will notice the absence of number twenty-two from the squad. No, folks, number twenty-two is not just a bench warmer who never gets a chance out on the field. The fact is that that jersey was retired in honor of Fred Cambria, former St. Leo graduate turned pro.

Why does the Lion bring up Freddy now when he graduated in 1970? It just so happens that Freddy is currently residing on campus and is filling the position of Assistant Coach to Bill Meyers. He arrived here January 10th to work out with St. Leo pitchers until his departure for Bradenton of February 15th.

I mentioned that Fred is a pro—but one important factor is missing—who's he play with? Now's the time to give you a little background information on his career. He signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates in the summer of 1969 and led the York (Pa.) Pirates to twelve victories. After graduating from Leo's Fred went on to play ball with the Triple A Columbus, Ohio, club and was later recalled by the Pirates in the fall. Last fall he worked out with the farm team in Bradenton as a pitching coach—but didn't play due to injury of his pitching arm. This spring he hopes to join the pitching line-up of the World Series champions and we even may be seeing him on on NBC's game of the week this summer. In the meantime he is backing our Monarchs with his excellent coaching ability and has great faith in them as a powerful collegiate squad.

Organizational News

The Senior Class would like to take this opportunity to extend thanks to all those who helped to make "Casino Night" a happy occasion for all. Special thanks is accorded to Sigma Beta, as the only full Greek participant.

Appreciation is also felt for all those who selflessly assisted on February 2 at "Bingo Night".

The Class of 1972 will be sponsoring a "Bash" for all classes. Look for posters giving details.

Get your green threads ready for "Irish Week" at Club '67 during the month of March.

Seniors, make your reservations for the Senior Class Cruise. Stop by The Club between 4 and 6 any day until Saturday, February 12.

Senior Week begins on Sunday, April 23, with many activities being planned. Among those already scheduled are: a pool party on Saturday, April 29 at 9 p.m.; the Baccalaureate Mass - April 29 at 5 p.m.; and Commencement - Sunday, April 30 at 10 a.m.

Read "The Lion" to keep posted on Senior Class News.

The second semester for Phi Theta Chi has gotten off to a very good start. The 1972 pledge class consisting of: Frank Coulton, Ken Forte, Steve Archer, Bob Dillon, John Attinello and Lenny Di Guilian are under the guidance of Pledge Master Kevin Talty and Ass. Peter San Paolo.

The basketball team under the leadership of Teddy Athas has a fine record of 4 wins and no losses. The brothers have a strong club and are looking forward to a very good season.

The Brothers are proud to announce the marriage of the former Miss Kathy Kinney to Mr. Jim Marriucci on Dec. 29, 1971. The wedding was held at St. Marys Church in Plainfield N.J. The brothers would also like to congratulate Mr. Jay Whipp on his engagement to Miss Barbara Boder, and Mr. Tim MaKowski on his engagement to Miss Peg O'Brien.

Two new brothers have been elected to hold office for the 1972 year. They are: Rob Decowski and Jay Whipp. The brothers are looking forward to a very prosperous second semester.

Super Bowl

The "piece de resistance" (as American sportswriters are wont to say) was the victory of UNDEROBERHASSENFEFFER in the South East Bavaria Yodeling Championships. In a sizzling display of aggressiveness and virtuosity, they broke the nerve of the SCHWIENHUNDBURG Quintet who "croaked" * in the second overtime.

*("Croaked" is a technical term used to indicate the failure of a team to meet the stringent minimum requirements established by the FIVYUG (Federation International Vor Yodel and Glockenspiel). It is sad to see the twilight of the Yodel competition approaching but the Glockenspiel prelims are only getting under way and we all are looking forward to a scintillating season of Glocking and Speling.

WARNING: When I bump into that crumb at the Quaker who conned me into the Dolphins and eight points, that "Soup Bowl" is going to look like a Love In.

Junior Varsity To Play In Valencia Classic

The junior varsity today will play in the Annual Freshmen-Sophomore Classic at Valencia Florida. The annual tournament will include the junior varsity teams of Rollins and Stetson, Valencia Community College, and our own St. Leo JV.

Coached by John Swart, the team this year has yet to win a ball game, but they are still trying. In their latest outing, they lost to Florida College of Temple Terrace 83 to 60 for their ninth loss in a row. Memories return from last year's team which won only two of twelve games.

This years team is composed of freshman, sophomore and some junior college transfer students. The players are: George Byrne of West Orange, N.J., John Dulaney of Gainesville, Florida, Gary Franco of Ridgefield Park, N.J., Bob McQuaters of North Syracuse, N.J., Mike Monogue of Chicago, Frank Shields of Chicago, and Bob Saap of Chicago.

The final junior varsity games are against Seminole J.C. on Feb. 2, Florida College at home on Feb. 11, the Jacksonville University Freshman on March 6 at Jacksonville, and Clearwater Christian College on Feb. 24.
